Nixon fires Cox; Richardson resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon fired special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox Saturday night, abolished Cox's Watergate task force and accepted the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson.

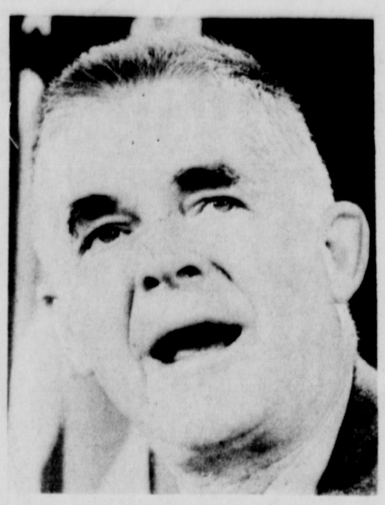
Nixon fired Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Ruckelshaus when he refused to carry out Nixon's order to fire Cox.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced shortly before 8:30 p.m. EDT that Nixon had fired Cox because of his announced intention to defy a presidential order that he cease a court battle to obtain the Watergate tapes.

Ziegler reported Richardson "felt obliged to resign" because he felt Nixon's order to Cox violated an understanding with Congress that Cox would be given a free hand in his Watergate investigations.

Ruckelshaus was fired, said Ziegler, because he refused to carry out a presidential order to discharge Cox.

Nixon then designated Solicitor General Robert H. Bork to be acting attorney general. Ziegler said Bork carried out Nixon's directive that Cox be discharged.



Archibald Cox...
...given the boot

The press secretary reported that, as of about 8 p.m., Nixon ordered the abolition of the office of the special Watergate prosecution force and directed the transfer of all its activities to the Justice Department.

Ziegler said the government's Watergate investigations would continue "with thoroughness and vigor."

In accepting Richardson's resignation Nixon wrote a one-sentence response addressed to "Dear Elliot." It read: "It is with the deepest regret and with an understanding of the circumstances which brought you to your decision that I accept your resignation."

In a five-paragraph letter of resignation, Richardson wrote Nixon:

"At the time you appointed me, you gave me the authority to name a special prosecutor if I should consider it appropriate. A few days before my confirmation hearing began, I announced that I would, if confirmed, 'appoint a special prosecutor and give him all the independence, authority and staff support needed to carry out the tasks entrusted to him.' I added, 'although he will be in the Department of Justice and report to me — and only to me — he will be aware that his ultimate accountability is to the American people."

President Nixon had announced Friday night that he had reached a compromise in the Watergate tapes case. He said he would permit Sen. John C. Stennis to hear the tapes and compare them with a summary of the White House conversations that he would release.

Cox announced afterward the compromise was not acceptable. On Saturday he said he would tell the courts that the President had failed to comply with court orders demanding him to give the tapes to a judge for examination.

He said he might "seek an order why the respondent (Nixon) should not be held in contempt."

Ziegler said Nixon's announcement Friday night was designed to avoid a constitutional confrontation while permitting "the least possible intrusion on the President's privacy."

Ziegler said Nixon's proposed solution to the tapes controversy had been "accepted by responsible leaders in the Congress and in the country" but said that Cox had announced an intent to defy presidential instructions.

In his announcement, Ziegler said Nixon had acted "in the spirit of accommodation that has marked American constitutional history." He said:

"Mr. Cox's refusal to proceed in the same spirit of accommodation, complete with his announced intention to defy instructions from the President and press for further confrontation at a time of serious world crisis, made it necessary for the President to discharge Mr. Cox and to return to the Department of Justice the task of prosecuting those who broke the law in connection with Watergate."

Richardson served successively as secretary of health, education and welfare, secretary of defense and attorney general. Earlier in the Nixon administration he had been undersecretary of state. He was called upon to be attorney general after the resignation of Richard G. Kleindienst, particularly to handle the Watergate case.

At the Justice Department, Richardson kept his silence and remained in his office late into the night.

A department spokesman, John Hushen, said Richardson intended to make no public statements on his resignation Saturday night or Sunday.

Bork, meanwhile, was reportedly meeting with Richardson and had no immediate comment.

Bork, 46, was a Yale University law

NAACP speaker urges opportunity for minority groups---seeks action

By MARY LOU VOSSMEYER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Speaking before the NAACP Freedom Fund Dinner Saturday at Ramada Inn, Elmo Turner, director of St. Louis HUD office, told guests that equal opportunity for minorities is one of the solutions to the problem of racism.

"The issue continues to be the rape of a native born American ... with no specific cultural identity," Turner said.

"It is overworked in the classroom and preached about in the pulpits ... and yet there is a simple solution ... equal opportunity," he added.

Turner told the group that only the work and dedication of NAACP can remedy the "disease" of racism. He stressed that NAACP members should spend time "doing their thing" rather than "talking their thing" and that the objective should be planning and participation rather than "hating and rumbling."

Turner quoted a sign he once saw that read "Nothing is more frightening than ignorance in action." "The revolution is inside," Turner added, "it is dedication."

Turner also talked about housing, pointing out that a federal subsidizing program is still suspended and that any new housing legislation in the near future is doubtful.

He also said that "better than 30 per cent of the population would be eligible

Kissinger in Moscow for summit

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew into Moscow Saturday night and was scheduled to begin immediate discussions on the Middle East war with Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Brezhnev requested that Kissinger and his aides meet with him in the Kremlin immediately after arriving. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who met Kissinger on his arrival, will join Brezhnev for the meeting, the spokesman said.

U.S. officials in Washington said Kissinger's trip was not expected to result in an immediate plan for settling the war. They said the urgent Russian invitation was a sign of important progress, but emphasized that nothing has been put on paper and that Kissinger was not given a specific Soviet proposal for consideration.

The White House said that President Nixon sent a private message to Brezhnev while Kissinger was enroute to Moscow.

U.S. sources gave no clue to the content of the Nixon message but said Kissinger's mission was to discuss "means to end the hostilities."

Brezhnev asked Nixon to send Kissinger here after four days of secret meetings in Cairo between Premier Alexei Kosygin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

According to unconfirmed reports, Kosygin presented Sadat with a Kremlin proposal for a cease-fire and returned home with at least Arab approval to begin intensive talks with the Americans.

According to the Yugoslav news agency, Tanjug, the Russians have come up with a four-point cease-fire proposal that includes an Israeli withdrawal to the pre-1967 battle lines, with Arab-Israeli borders to be guaranteed by the United States, the Soviet Union and other members of the U.N. Security Council.

As reported by Tanjug, the plan makes no reference to an Egyptian withdrawal from lands gained in the war now in its third week.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said in Tel Aviv on Saturday that Israel plans no "proposals or initiatives" for a cease-fire.

Close to Cairo

Israel claims deep push

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli officers said their invading tanks "broadened their gateway into Egypt" Saturday and fought to within 50 miles of Cairo by knocking back Egyptian defenders in bitter armored and air battles.

"The battle is heavy and getting heavier," and Israeli major told newsmen at the front. "But we feel we are on the way to destroying the Egyptian army."

Egypt said the Israelis were taking heavy losses and said its Soviet-supplied defenses were knocking down Israeli jets in the skies over the Suez battleground.

As the fighting raged, diplomatic efforts to end the 15-dayold war intensified and U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Moscow for peacemaking consultations with Soviet leaders.

Meanwhile, Syria said its warplanes streaked into the Israeli heartland for the first time and bombed an oil refinery near Haifa. Israeli military officials denied the report and an Associated Press newsman in Haifa, about 50 miles north of Tel Aviv, said he saw no damage to the refinery.

Reports from the Mediterranean resort of Nahariya, near the refinery about four miles north of Haifa, said a Syrian MIG fighter was blasted out of the sky there and plummeted into a house, injuring a woman.

Spokesmen in Damascus gave no assessment of results of the reported raid, nor did they say how many planes took part. They said it was launched in retaliation for Israeli strikes on Syrian economic targets.

Marauding Israeli jets have totally destroyed oil storage and refining installations in Syria during the two weeks of Middle East warfare, Syrian Deputy Premier Mohammed Haidar told newsmen in Damascus.

The Cairo command said Egyptian tanks, artillery and missile batteries defending against the cross-canal Israeli advance have inflicted "heavy losses in lives and equipment."

It made no mention of the Israeli tank column that Tel Aviv said has moved to about 19 miles inside Egypt west of the Suez Canal, the cease-fire line since 1967.

Egypt said earlier the Israeli incursion was being met with heavy fighting. It said Saturday that in two days of fierce armored clashes the Israelis have lost 85 tanks and 56 halftracks.

The Egyptians also said their fighters and air defenses downed 15 Israeli jets over the Suez fighting Saturday and during Israeli raids on Egyptian targets in the northern Nile Delta.

The exact point of the Israeli bridgehead in Egypt proper — said to include 12,000 soldiers and 300 tanks — was kept secret by the Israelis.

Evidence against Agnew continues to pile up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government prosecutors buttressed their case against Spiro T. Agnew with an array of corroborating evidence Agnew continues to ignore while claiming he did no wrong.

Agnew implies that the four key government witnesses lied to buy leniency, but he said nothing about the supporting testimony of scores of other witnesses and the volumes of documents backing the prosecution claims.

Among the most important is a diary kept by one of the key witnesses who listed day by day the illegal payments reaped in the kickback scheme Agnew was accused of promoting.

Justice Department sources are reluctant to elaborate on the documentary evidence discussed in the 40-page summary made public as part of the agreement that led to Agnew's resignation as vice president Oct. 10.

But they say the case rested on much more than the unsupported word of four men, as Agnew claimed.

The prosecutors say Agnew took thousands of dollars in illegal kickbacks from contracting firms during his years as Baltimore county executive, as governor of Maryland and as vice president.

Agnew pleaded no contest to a single tax evasion charge, and the government agreed to bring no further criminal charges against him. He remains liable for civil suits to collect back taxes on thousands of dollars.

Questioned about the evidence, government sources say that Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson would not have allowed the investigation to run its full course if he had doubted the strength of the accusations.

Agnew, however, said last Monday that the government case "rested entirely on the testimony of individuals who had already confessed to criminal acts and who had been granted total or partial immunity in exchange for their testimony against me."

The Justice Department says no witness has been granted total immunity from prosecution. Two of the key witnesses have been promised partial immunity, and the other two have agreed to plead guilty to a single tax charge carrying a maximum three-year prison sentence.

Richardson asked the court to spare Agnew a prison sentence and the judge agreed on the strength of Richardson's request alone.

But in the case of the two witnesses, the prosecutors will make no sentencing recommendations, leaving the men risking prison.

Agnew claimed that testimony of the four men was "not independently cooroborated or tested by cross-examination."

Prosecutors say to the contrary. The wintesses were questioned repeatedly and finally were put to the test of a sworn statement subjecting them to perjury charges if they were found to be lying.

Agnew said nothing about the documentary evidence gathered to support the government accusations.

Among the documents is a diary kept by Jerome Wolff, one of the four key witnesses and the state roads commission chairman during Agnew's term as governor.

According to the prosecutors, "Wolff kept detailed contemporaneous documents on which he recorded the dates, amounts and engineering firm sources of the monies that he received from (I.H.) Hammerman as his share of the proceeds of the scheme."

Hammerman is the Agnew friend who solicited and received illegal kickbacks from seven Maryland contracting forms, the prosecutors said.

Acting on Agnew's orders, he gave half the money to Agnew, kept one-fourth for himself and gave one-fourth to Wolff, the government says.

Wolff's diary is "among a large volume of cooroborative documents that Wolff has turned over to the United States attorney's office," the government said.

In addition, prosecutors examined Agnew's tax returns, bank books and other personal financial records for about five years.

They sifted through 130 boxes of records from Agnew's two years as governor and some 15 filing cabinets jammed with Federal Highway Administration records on Maryland highway projects from 1967 through this year.

Richardson and the prosecutors say they will talk no more about the substance of the evidence against Agnew for they hope the turmoil will subside. There has been no indication that Agnew intends to answer the details of the accusations.

Sedalia's name not unique

By DICK JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Once heralded as the "Queen City of the Prairie," Sedalia often enjoyed the distinction of uniqueness in many respects. But with the westward push of the railroad and the constant flow of settlers the uniqueness of the name Sedalia was somehow lost in the shuffle.

There are now six communities named Sedalia in the U.S. with another located in Alberta, Canada.

Although none have grown to the present 25,000-plus size of Sedalia, Mo., there is historical evidence that at least one other Sedalia was named in memory of the Missouri city, which was once billed as "the place where folks enjoy life."

Sedalia, Colo., was founded Sept. 6, 1871, and named by one of the oroginal settlers, a Mr. Clay, a native of Sedalia, Mo. Originally called Plum Station, the village in the mountainous Colorado foothills was a stop on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad — now the Santa Fe — which eventually stretched from El Paso, Tex., through Denver, and on to Salt Lake City.

With the help of David W. Brunton, director of the Douglas County Colorado Public Library, information on the hamlet has been made available. After some research, Brunton came across "The First Five Years of the Railroad Era in Colorado," which outlines a day-to-day account of the westward push of the railroad.

The facts are blurred on exactly when the name Plum Station was abandoned in favor of Sedalia, although it is known that in 1870 the entire town was sold to one Jonathan House and shortly thereafter became known as Plum Station. The local post office was still known as Plum in 1881, although the town's name had already been changed to Sedalia.

No references can be found in local histories here to anyone named Clay, although the fact that Clay was a railroader might be taken to indicate he could possibly have been living in Missouri sometime between 1861-64 when Sedalia was the end of the Missouri Pacific line.

The Missouri Pacific reached Sedalia in January, 1861, and remained the western-most terminal for three more years during the Civil War. After the war, local histories say, many of the rail workers followed rail construction west.

Today, Sedalia, Colo., located about 25 miles south of Denver, is an unincorporated area "with no definite town limits," according to Brunton. Nevertheless, Brunton says, the area has a population of around 300 persons.

Another Sedalia, this one in Indiana, is also unincorporated but has a population of about 1,000. A history of Clinton County, Ind., shows that it was platted March 31, 1873, by James A. Campbell and Jackson B. McCune.

McCune built the first house and was also the first postmaster in the town, which eventually had "a considerable business center" with a bank — The Bank of Sedalia — as well as several churches, and later, a high school.

The town was reportedly named after Sedalia, Ill., by a railroad construction official who was a resident of that town. No record exists today for a Sedalia in Illinois. It is possible, however, that both the Illinois and Indiana Sedalia's referred to could have been named after Sedalia, Mo.

A plat for Sedalia, Mo., was filed in October, 1860, by George R. Smith, who had come to the central Missouri area from his home in Kentucky. This puts Sedalia, Mo., on the map at least 13 years before its Indiana relative. The town was originally named Sedville after Smith's youngest daughter's nickname, Sed. The name change took place in 1860, three years before the town became the Pettis County seat.

Sedalia, Ky., which presently has a population of 258 persons, is in the western part of the state, and even today boasts a post office, two churches, one school, two general stores, a restaurant and a feed mill.

Mrs. Joanne Cloar, librarian at the Graves County Library in Kentucky was unable to find the origin of the name of the town although she did indicate that many of the names of towns and counties in western Kentucky are similar to those in central Missouri.

Another Sedalia, located in South Carolina, was shown in a 1954 Atlas but has apparently drifted into obscurity now. No record of the town's history could be found at the Union, S.C., Public Library.

Terrorists hijack plane; 47 aboard

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Terrorists hijacked an Argentine airliner with 49 persons aboard Saturday and flew it to the Bolivian border town of Yacuiba after the government barred refueling in Argentina.

Argentine President Juan D. Peron, in his first confrontation with terrorist hijackers since his inauguration Oct. 12, reportedly asked Bolivia to withhold all aid from the hijackers, who apparently wanted to get to Cuba.

The Aerolineas Argentinas plane, a twin-engine Boeing 737 jet, was reported stranded in stifling heat at Yacuiba on a soft airstrip unequipped for jets and lacking jet fuel.

Reports reaching La Paz airport from Yacuiba said the plane landed with almost its last drop of fuel.

On instructions of the Argentine government, the hijackers had been denied fuel at Tucuman and Salta in Argentina before they flew across the border into Bolivia.

The hijackers, described in Buenos Aires as three men and a woman, were reportedly armed with rifles and hand grenades. They seized the plane on a regular flight from Buenos Aires to Salta, 1,000 miles north of the capital.

The airline said the plane carried 41 adults, a child and an infant and six crewmen.

Meanwhile, a White House official, who declined to be quoted by name, said that increasing talk of impeachment had been an important factor in the President's surprise announcement Friday night that he would yield some ground in the tapes dispute.

In his statement Nixon also said he was ordering Cox to halt his court battle to obtain the tapes and documents relating to presidential conversations.

But Nixon remained under court order to hand over the tapes to U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica.

The judge, who could not be reached for comment, remained a key figure in the dispute. If he wished, Sirica could initiate action against the President for continued disobediance to a lawful court order.

Cox told a news conference that he had been repeatedly frustrated in his efforts to obtain documents for his investigation from White House files.

He objected to the presidential order barring him not only from obtaining the nine tapes he sought, but also from getting notes and memoranda, now or in the future.

On that point he got some support from Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson. A Justice Department spokesman said Richardson disagreed with the portion of the proposed compromise which barred Cox from taking legal action to obtain other White House documents he might need in the future.

The special prosecutor's office said the response to his televised news conference has been overwhelmingly favorable.

Cox said he hadn't yet determined whether the proper court to notify of the presidential noncompliance was the District Court or the Court of Appeals that upheld Sirica's order Oct. 12.

Senator Percy suggestion to Volkswagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., has written the West German government suggesting Granite City, Ill., as the site for Volkswagen's first U.S. auto plant and has received replies he considers encouraging, Percy's office said Saturday.

A spokesman for Percy said that when he learned in July that the automaker was interested in building a plant in the United States, the senator wrote West German Chancellor Wllie Brandt, because the firm is partly owned by the West German government.

Percy suggested an 118-acre site with an unused plant building on it in Granite City, about 15 minutes from downtown St. Louis, Mo., the spokesman said. He said that Percy wrote that the site had excellent facilities, available manpower and that the area could use the jobs.

Brandt replied that there was interest in a U.S. plant because of recent changes in the world monetary system and that an evaluation team would be sent to the United States, Percy's spokesman said.

He characterized Brandt's response as affirmative but noncommittal about any site.

The spokesman said Percy has since learned from the West German embassy here that a team has been here studying the general feasibility of a U.S. plant and would probably recommend proceeding.

Percy's spokesman said, however, that the embassy indicated that there would have to be additional evaluation of specific sites.

Street resurfacing closes some streets

Portions of Kentucky and Lamine were closed Saturday as a result of street resurfacing by the Sedalia Street and Alley Department.

Kentucky was closed from Broadway to Sixth all day, as was Lamine from Broadway to 11th.

A spokesman for the street department said other resurfacing planned for Saturday included laying of "hot mix" asphalt in the 200 block of Kentucky, adjacent to the new Municipal Building, and also at Third and Park.

Federal drug agent tells of break-in

ST. LOUIS (AP)—One of the eight federal agents indicted in connection with the wrong-door drug raids in Collinsville, Ill., says he and the other men were told "unofficially that we were going to take the fall for everyone."

The agent was one of four to discuss the no-knock raids and their aftermath with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The interview appeared in the paper's Sunday editions, and all four wished to remain unidentified, the Post-Dispatch said.

"The pressure was on to make examples of us," the agent told the newspaper. "Watergate and political in-fighting created a climate conducive to scapegoating."

Twelve agents in all, four of them St. Louis area policemen, were indicted by a federal grand jury last August of violating the civil rights of 11 persons during mistaken raids in Collinsville, Edwardsville and East St. Louis, Ill., between April 19 and April 23. All 12, then assigned to the nowdefunct Drug Abuse Law Enforcement agency, have pleaded innocent to the charges.

Three of the agents interviewed were critical of the DALE operation in St. Louis and said they had requested transfers before the Collinsville incident.

"DALE was more of a flashy operation than the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs," they said. The three had worked for the BNDD before being assigned to DALE. "DALE was an informal operation with the emphasis on compiling statistics. No BNDD safeguards were retained. Expediency was the key at DALE."

The agents agreed for the most part they had exercised poor judgment during the Collinsville raids, but their account of what happened differs greatly from that of the victims of the raids.

"We picked the wrong house and homes of Herbert Giglotto and Donald Askew. "It was an error and we admit it. But we did not wave guns around or use foul language."

The agents were bitter about the grand jury probe that led to their indictment and about the treatment they received when testifying before the grand jury.

"The investigation was biased and unfair," an agent said. "The prosecutors asked us two questions at once, refused to let us complete our answers several times, questioned our credibility in front of the jurors and asked so many questions relating to whether we used dope ourselves that our repeated denials must have created suspicions."

All eight federal agents have been suspended without pay and face dismissal if they are convicted on the federal charges.

Christmas seal drive underway this week

The 67th Annual Christmas Seal Campaign is getting underway this week with delivery of the first 1973 Christmas Seals to homes and businesses in Sedalia, with more than 750,000 appeal letters being mailed by the American Lung Association of Western Missouri.

A total of $228,000 was raised in the western half of Missouri last year and local officials hope to increase that amount this year.

"Donations have increased recently as people become more aware of lung diseases," Mrs. Bettye Murrell, a member of the association's board of directors, says. Mrs. Murrell, 1408 State Fair Blvd., has been actively involved in the program for more than 30 years.

Funds collected from the drive are used to finance career scholarships for young persons interested in entering the medical field, as well as conducting research on air pollution and offering educational programs to the public on various lung diseases.

The entire mailing for the fun drive will take about a month to complete in the Pettis County area, it was learned.

ASC committee nominations open

Nominations for candidates for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee are open from now through Monday, Oct. 29, according to Samuel Hieronymous, chairman of the Pettis County ASC Committee.

He said at least four petitions have been signed so far to nominate candidates. The petition period began Oct. 4. Under the SC farmer-elected committee system, the wheat, feed grain, farm facility loan, and other federal farm programs are administered by local farmers. Elections are held annually by mail and newly-elected committee members take office each Jan. 1.

Any farmer may nominate a candidate by signing a petition prior to the November-December mail election. They may sign as many petitions as they wish. A petition may consist of any sheet of paper, but it must include a statement that the nominee has agreed to serve, if elected.

Hieronymous noted, however, that printed nominating petition forms are available at the local ASCS office. Petitions must be turned in at the county ASC office, 319 South Lamine, no later than Oct. 29, he said.

If less than six candidates are nominated by petition, he pointed out, the community committees now in office will fill out the slate.

Those eligible to make nominations, run for office and vote in ASC committee elections include farm owners, tenants and sharecroppers. They must be at least 18 years old. A wife who operates a farm with her husband and whose name is on the property deed can also be nominated, vote and serve on a committee, he said.

EATING BETWEEN MEALS CAN HELP PREVENT OBESITY

What a headline! Some of you will probably doubt this statement. But experiments have shown that more weight was gained in eating a given amount of food in 3 meals a day than if this same amount of food was nibbled at, all day long. Thus it was concluded that people should eat more meals at shorter intervals. This doesn't mean you can eat cake and ice cream all day. A sensible choice of foods is still needed.

for it (public housing) if they asked for it ... but less than 5 per cent are enjoying the benefits of that housing."

Turner also voiced a plea to the NAACP branch representatives to look into their own areas to see what can be done about the plight of the elderly who "because of conditions in this country, had no social security or retirement plans during the productive years of their lives" and are now living on fixed incomes.

"We are in a time of turmoil and crisis," Turner concluded.

"We must encourage our young people to prepare themselves ... the hope is in the children ... but it's also in the here and now. The hope is in you ... the hope is in us."

Other activities of the Missouri State Conference of Branches of NAACP included panels and workshops on affirmative action in employment and in Missouri institutions of higher education.

The conference also received a progress report by the Missouri commission on Human Rights.

In the session on problems in education, Wallace West, president of the St. Louis County branch, told the group that there still is a problem with whites and blacks relating to each other within the school system.

Citing examples of St. Louis County schools that find it necessary to have guards during school hours, West stressed that NAACP members should not be satisfied "until we have total and true integration in all the school systems."

The Rev. Joseph Nixon, president of the Cape Girardeau branch, mentioned that his Southeast Missouri group is faced with a "peculiar problem of a limited number of black teachers."

He said that in Southeast Missouri there are no black educators on the university level and that there is a "lack of motivation among students ... due to a high rate of racism, even though it is subtle."

Mrs. Julia Hill, Kansas City, told the group that the power in changing the school systems is with the parents. She said it is important to get the parents interested because "they make the difference, they can move the teachers..."

The following resolutions are among those adopted by the conference Saturday in its plenary session:

The NAACP conference of branches resolved to urge Missouri state universities to intensify recruitment and fair consideration of minorities.

It was resolved to make special efforts to inform the young people in various branch areas of the NAACP-ROTC program.

A resolution regarding the hiring of blacks in staff positions at all levels by the University of Missouri-St. Louis. The conference resolved that if the unsatisfactory conditions at this university were not remedied within 90 days, it would be reported to the office of Economic Opportunity, and the affirmative action division of the federal government.

A resolution was passed to establish a committee to secure home rule of the Kansas City and St. Louis police departments.

The conference also resolved to take "appropriate action" against Orscheln trucking firm for its "unfair and undemocratic hiring and firing practices" resulting in a high turnover of black employes.

That the governor of Missouri be urged to appoint a competent person to explore a revision of the state employment forms because its wording is particularly discriminatory against minority women."

A resolution of commendation to the host branch, Pettis County NAACP, also was adopted. It was pointed out that this is the first state conference of branches that was able to have printed programs.

Ann Landers

Lady alters facts to conceal identity

Dear Ann Landers: Please forgive me for altering some of the facts in this letter to disguise my identity, but I just can't give it to you straight.

My uncle was lieutenant governor of the state 12 years ago. Every time my husband introduces me he says, "This is my wife, Gertrude. Her uncle was the lieutenant governor." Occasionally I catch a pained "so-what" look. I want to sink through the floor. I never did care for that introduction but my husband seems to think it's appropriate.

According to him generals, senators, governors and other VIPs retain their titles even though they are no longer in office. He says it is not only correct, but pleasing. What about it, Ann? (P.S. I STILL don't like it.) — Just Plain Gertrude.

Dear J.P.G.: It is appropriate (and pleasing, I'm sure) to call a retired officer "General" or use the title "Governor" or "Senator" after the fact, but you are none of these, so why must your husband drag your uncle into the act? Does he feel you need a build-up? Or, does HE need it?

Tell him, in no uncertain terms, that you are content to be just his wife and that's the way you want to be introduced.

Dear Ann Landers: Help! Please. What is the kindest way for a young married couple with a child to tell their parents on both sides to cool it? We don't want to seem unkind or ungrateful.

How many times a day should they phone? How many Sundays in a row should be devoted to parents?

These are distrubing questions and we don't have the answers. Do you? — Had It In Ohio.

Dear Ohio: No. Nobody has. It depends on a variety of things about which I know nothing. How often do they call? How long do they talk? Do they drop in uninvited? Do they invite you to their home or do they just come to yours? How long do they stay? Do they "take over" your child? Do you accept financial help from them? Expensive gifts? Favors, such as "sitting," taking the child when you go away on weekends or vacations? Does your spouse like your parents? Are they demanding, boring, tiresome? Or are they good company?

Every young married couple should sit down and think about these things and come up with answers that makes sense to them.

And before you arrive at any conclusions, please remember this: You will never regret it if you put yourself out a little for your folks. Most parents have put themselves out a great deal for their children.

Dear Ann Landers: I have no tears of sympathy for that 40-year-old man who says it's too late for him to get dates. (Several girls turned him down and he was so hurt that he just gave up.)

A man always has a chance, no matter what his age. This is not true of a woman. I am 40 and have never been asked out by a normal, single man — only married men, alcoholics and homosexuals who want a "cover." Such losers are a waste of time and I refuse to be bothered. But since I'm a woman I must wait to be asked out.

I wish that 40-year-old man who feels like a "reject" would ask ME for a date. I'd accept so fast his head would swim. — Unclaimed Jewel.

Dear Jewel: You and 500 other women who have written to me this week. What's the matter with you fellas out there, anyway? Get moving. And don't ask ME for names and addresses. Do your own research.

Drugs. How much is too much? Is pot O.K.? Is L.S.D. too much? If you're on dope or considering it, get Ann Landers' new booklet "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Wider highway loads

Huge, 14-foot-wide mobile homes may now be transported on Missouri's narrow highways, following a ruling by the State Highway Commission.

The commission voted 4-2 to allow a one-year trial period during which over-sized mobile homes may be transported over highways. Their decision ignored objections from the chief highway engineer and safety groups.

On 12-foot-wide lanes, which are common in Missouri, this would mean an overhang of nearly two feet (the previous maximum width was 12 feet, 4 inches). But the big rigs will also be permitted on lanes only 11 feet in width, which would mean a 3-foot overhang.

Chief Highway Engineer Robert Hunter strongly opposed the move, citing "hazards and operational difficulties." Those who have already encountered the wider loads on highways around Sedalia know what Hunter is talking about.

He sees the next step as a bid for 16-foot-wide rigs by the mobile home industry. Past experience with the bus and trucking industries, which continually press for wider and longer loads in Missouri, shows this to be the case, once the gate is lowered.

The commission change reportedly was tied to promises that the mobile home industry would set up plants in Missouri. We don't think this is worth the price motorists will have to pay in inconvenience, frustration and potential dangers.

"IT'S A DEAL. WINNER TAKES ALL."

Solitude

Ah, yes, we need the solitude,
Sometimes to be alone,
Although we may like people
We need time of our own,
We need to sit and meditate,
To think our problems through,
Sometimes we need to simply sit
Even when there are things to do,
Living in today's noise and rush
With people all about
We'd like a little solitude
To just get straightened out,
To settle down our nerves a bit,
To get our vision straight,
To curb a fiery temper,
To overcome our hate,
We need a little time alone
To evaluate our lives
For no one is quite as good
As the life for which he strives;
A few minutes of a morning
As we watch the rising sun,
An hour, perhaps, at evening
When our working day is done,
Upon the porch in summer
Watching people passing by
And I've found my greatest solace
Is just looking at the sky,
Walking, riding or merely sitting
In my living room I find
That as I'm gazing upward
God is always in my mind,
I rarely write a poem
After it is night
For I like to think God's watching
Through my window as I write.

One woman's war against Big Oil

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — In a world beset by war and Watergate, a determined grandmother has stood up to a powerful oil executive over Gulf Oil's practices in faraway Angola. The story, as it has unfolded in their private correspondence, is an American morality tale worth printing.

The grandmother, Elizabeth Jackman of Arcadia, Calif., a Gulf stockholder, read a newspaper story criticizing her company for supporting the Portuguese colonials against the oppressed blacks in Angola. She protested.

The executive, B. R. Dorsey, president of the multibillion-dollar corporation, heeded the voice from the crowd and tried to assuage her. She wound up going to Angola, a lone stockholder on a fact-finding mission, where Gulf promised she would see for herself the company's benevolence toward the blacks.

Her private crusade began in April 1972, when she set aside her family duties long enough to fly to the Gulf stockholders' meeting in Pittsburgh. She had a question.

"Could not Gulf," she asked politely, "be more responsive than it is to the needs of the Africans?" But the Gulf brass gave her the brush-off.

Bothered by this, she wrote an acidly civilized letter to the corporate boss himself. The stockholders meeting, she complained, had been a "dismal, joyless affair, lacking in taste, sensitivity and humor. I had believed that (it) would be an occasion for the exchange of ideas. I now recognize the extent of my naivete."

The Gulf executives, she wrote, were "sitting there like robots... clapping together (at) the same beat. I heard a beat from a different drummer. Why didn't Gulf... explore a more creative position in Angola? (It) brought out the Bella Abzug in me."

The earnestness of her appeal stirred the busy Gulf president. "I must begin by apologizing for (the meeting's) rigidity." Dorsey responded. "I am sorry it seemed 'dismal and lacking in taste.' We must improve the way we conduct future meetings... I am... abashed."

As for her complaints about Angola, he invited her to see the Gulf operation there for herself at company expense. Mrs. Jackman accepted the invitiation but insisted upon paying her own fare.

The obliging Dorsey personally ordered detailed briefing papers be sent to her. These showed that Gulf has a formidable $209 million investment in Angola. Black employment at the oil facilities, according to the company statistics, was up 10 per cent in one year, with pensions and other programs above the Angolan average.

Loaded down with corporate materials, the determined grandmother flew off to "see for herself" the Gulf facilities in both Angola and Nigeria. She received the well wishes of Dorsey from his executive suite.

"This letter probably will arrive too late to have permitted me to wish you a safe and worthwhile trip to Africa," he wrote, "but not too late to be welcoming you back and to ask you to share with me your reactions to your trip."

Upon her return, accordingly, Mrs. Jackman shared her reactions with Mr. Dorsey. Gulf's "Angolan efforts seem ludicrous and feeble," she wrote.

She had been impressed with Gulf's efforts to assist the black government in Nigeria with the "transition from colonialism to self-determination." But she had found this approach "totally lacking" in Angola. "The one black" in the Angola Gulf management, she wrote, had been shipped out of town "apparently because of friction with the Portuguese staff."

She had been briefed by Gulf on how kind the Portuguese were to Angolan blacks. Instead, she had found laborers on a coffee plantation kept behind barbed wire "in one-room dormitories ... separated from their families, cooking the allotted food on open fires."

The few whites in Angola, in contrast, lived in a world of golf courses, swimming pools and luxurious homes with well-stocked liquor cabinets.

"Importing large American cars for the Gulf staff," she wrote Dorsey, "seems quite unneccessary." The practice "fosters the idea of limitless American money... The big cars are locally dubbed 'swimming pools.'"

Some of Gulf's employes in Angola, she charged, regarded blacks with "the outmoded southern USA... redneck attitude."

She called upon Gulf to support black businesses, to seek increased black enrollment in farm and technical schools and to promote better understanding of black liberation efforts in Angola.

"The priority given to construction of clubs for the Gulf staff, mainly Europeans, puts an emphasis on importing a lifestyle completely inappropriate to black Angola today," she wrote.

The disappointed Dorsey, however, didn't reply. Instead an aide, William Cox, who accompanied Mrs. Jackman on her African tour, wrote back that "we both saw the same things but interpreted them quite differently."

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives really made it last week. Its minority leader for eight years, Gerald R. Ford, was chosen as the President's designate for vice president. The District of Columbia was voted a meager bill for home rule.

Assuming that the House and Senate will now agree on the home rule bill and the President will sign it, the colonial citizens of the District will be allowed to elect a mayor and a city council with ward representatives, which is certainly preferable to presidential appointees.

The Congress will retain its total control of the District's spending. The citizens who were in favor of home rule agree that half a loaf is better than none. There are others who would prefer remaining under the thumb of Congress because of the responsibilities that home rule will require.

The President has resumed his Sunday church services. The preacher Sunday, also a congressman, was William H. Hudnut III (R-Ind.) He boasted that there are five preachers in the House of Representatives. They are, in addition to Hudnut: John Buchana (R-Ala.), Andrew Young (D-Ga.), Robert F. Drinan (D-Mass.), and Delegate Walter E. Fauntroy (D-Dist. of Columbia).

There are 243 Democrats and 192 Republicans in the House. Fourteen of these are women, one dozen Democrats with only two Republicans. There are 289 lawyers. Most of the women in the House are law school graduates.

Some loyal friends of Spiro T. Agnew felt the announcement ceremony for Gerald R. Ford was too joyous. The nation faced a very serious crisis and some felt that the White House performance lacked the dignity and solemnity which the situation required.

Others have been bold enough to call the former vice president a "crook," and say the attorney general has shown him more mercy than he deserved.

One is reminded of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," where Shylock calls Portia, the impersonating judge, "A Daniel come to judgment, yea, a Daniel, a wise young judge." Portia in her famous "quality of merchy" speech, continued: "Though justice be thy plea, consider this — that in the course of justice none of us should see salvation." She continues: "This strict court of Venice must needs give sentence 'gainst the merchant there."

In this case Mr. Agnew is the accused merchant, but unlike Antonio he must pay for his guilt in disgrace, reputation and finances. His former high office has saved him from prison, which is not true of lesser political officials who have been bribed and cheated on taxes.

We can thank the Senate Watergate Committee for exposing so much corruption in politics, but will future politicians take heed? How many already in their official seats are shuddering in fear of their undiscovered crimes and misdemeanors? Many young persons, poor and legally unadvised, have been given long-term sentences for less. Shall political criminals be shown mercy for the very corruption which gained them their high offices?

Big brother watches you suffer

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — When it comes to passing upon proposed new drugs, what is the role of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration? Under the law, the FDA must withhold approval until it is satisfied that the drug is (1) safe, and (2) effective. These criteria, and especially the bureaucratic fashion in which the FDA applies them, demand attention.

Kilpatrick

At first glance, the two yardsticks appear unassailable. The awful lessons of thalidomide teach us what can happen when a drug is released before its safety has been established. And an ineffective drug is worse than useless to patient and doctor alike.

Yet the standards can be applied so rigidly, with such excessive prudence and such fearful timidity, that the healing arts are not helped but hindered. That is what has been happening in recent years at the FDA. By demanding the most absolute and overwhelming proof of safety and efficacy — proof according to the most costly and meticulous laboratory procedures — the FDA has stifled the development of new drugs and left sick human beings to suffer for want of the relief that new drugs might provide.

Dimethyl sulfoxide (DMSO) is a solvent, derived chiefly from lignin. Its fantastic therapeutic properties were first explored in 1961 by Dr. Stanley Wallace Jacob, professor of surgery at the University of Oregon. By 1965, as word spread, some 100,000 patients had received the drug. Upwards of 1,200 papers on DMSO have been published in the domestic and foreign literature. Investigators have submitted 193 volumes of reports to the FDA.

The overwhelming consensus of this prodigious research is that DMSO, while not a "Miracle drug," is one of the safest compounds ever formulated. And though it is not effective for every patient in every instance in which it has been used, DMSO is amazingly effective in an impressive variety of cases.

McGrady's book suffers from its author's undisguised enthusiasm, but there is no reason to doubt the findings he reviews. DMSO has been identified, very uncertainly, as a causative factor in only a single death. Three research papers indicate that in massive dosages, DMSO can result in producing myopia in rabbits and rhesus monkeys. That is about the sum of the adverse findings in terms of toxicity.

Yet DMSO remains almost wholly unavailable to American physicians and their patients. The FDA effectively banned the drug, except in veterinary use, back in November, 1965. Just this past month, a select committee from the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council held the action "justified," and concluded that "in view of the inadequacies of available information, it does not seem prudent to make DMSO widely available under unregulated conditions."

The NAS-NRC committee was not altogether hostile. On the matter of safety, it agreed that eye damage in man "has not been established." Morphologic changes in the lense at the cellular level "have not been demonstrated." Indeed, a recent adequately controlled study demonstrated "no adverse effects upon the eyes of the subjects."

On the matter of effectiveness, the reviewing committee conceded that professionally satisfactory studies demonstrate DMSO's effectiveness in treating acute traumatic injury, milder forms of scleroderma, and certain fungal infections. In other areas, the evidence is "conflicting." Many reports reflect the enthusiasm of practicing physicians treating real-life patients, but these reports, alas, "simply do not qualify as scientific evidence of the caliber required for making decisions that affect the quality of medical care in this country."

Stripped of professional jargon, what this means is that DMSO is still banned, except for brief experiments with minor ailments. Big Brother, that is to say, is still watching you. At the FDA, Big Brother is indifferently watching you suffer, while reasonably safe and reasonably effective drugs are kept out of your doctor's hands.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The soybean is a leguminous plant native to eastern Asia where it has been grown for about 4,000 years. The soybean was not of economic importance in the U.S. until about 1900, but today is one of the most useful plants known, The World Almanac says. During World War II soybeans became important in the U.S. as substitutes for other protein foods and as a source of oil.

Telephonic communication has been established between the calaboose and the Water Works at Flat Creek. Al. Conner got to fooling around the "masheen" yesterday afternoon, and all of a sudden it struck up. The officer jumped through the transom, and has not since been heard from.

Compromise comes as a big surprise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The compromise solution worked out by the White House and the leaders of the Senate Watergate committee caught several members of the committee by surprise.

Sens. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., said they were not consulted by the committee leaders before they reached the compromise with President Nixon.

"There may have been some good reason for them to concur with the President," Inouye said.

Under the plan, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., will review a summary of the tapes to verify its content.

The proposal was worked out by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, and Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the vice chairman, in an hour-long meeting at the White House Friday afternoon.

An aide to Baker said the senator was summoned to the White House while in Chicago Friday morning and Sen. Ervin returned to Washington from New Orleans.

The aide said Baker had suggested a similar compromise recently in which someone not connected to the Watergate case or its investigation would listen to the material.

Weicker said he would support efforts by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox to pursue the matter in the courts. Cox said he would not support the compromise.

"I reject the hollow deal to release a summary of the evidence rather than the evidence itself," Weicker said. "The nation deserves the truth rather than politics as usual."

Ervin was to hold a news conference late Saturday afternoon to discuss the issue.

With many congressman out of Washington for the three-day Veterans Day weekend, reaction was sparse.

Stennis, who found himself at the heart of the compromise, said he was ready to review the material. But he said he was unsure just what his role would be.

"If I am called on to listen to the tapes and certify as to their content I will consider it a call to duty and render the service the best I can," he said.

Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, praising the compromise, said: "I think a very wise solution has been reached and a constitutional question avoided. I am personally relieved that the ultimate issue has been resolved."

But Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., said the decision "ought not to be accepted by anybody."

"It does not comply at all with the courts' orders," he said.

He said that if U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who is handling the case, does not accept the compromise, and Nixon refuses to accept Sirica's order, the President should be impeached.

Interest rates go lower yet

NEW YORK (AP) — A number of major banks, including three of the nation's five largest, have lowered their prime interest rates for the first time in nearly two years.

The quarter-point decreases, announced Friday, appeared to signal the end of a prolonged period in which the key lending rate rose to a record 10 per cent from 4¾ per cent in the 20 months from January 1972 to September 1973. The previous record, 8½ per cent, had been reached in mid-1969.

The banks lowering their rates to 9¾ per cent Friday included Bank of America in San Francisco, the nation's largest; First National City Bank of New York, the second largest; and Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, fifth largest.

Cleveland Trust Co., largest bank in Ohio and 27th largest in the nation, announced it would reduce its prime rate by a half-point to 9½ per cent effective Tuesday.

The prime rate is that which banks charge their most creditworthy corporate customers. Increases or decreases in it usually foreshadow general trends in interest rates.

As interest rates rose in 1972 and earlier this year, for example, mortgages became difficult and sometimes impossible to get.

After the 10 per cent level became industry-wide in September, following 21 successive quarter-point rises, rates for short-term loans fell off amid signs that economic expansion was beginning to slow. That reduced the cost to banks of obtaining funds and made available cheaper sources of money for corporate borrowers.

One charge dropped against Krogh

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of the charges against Egil Krogh Jr. in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist has been dismissed. But a judge refused to free Krogh, John D. Ehrlichman and two other former White House aides from other charges in the case.

Superior Court Judge James G. Kolts, after hearing three hours of legal arguments, said Friday he believed there was insufficient evidence to sustain a conviction of Krogh on the charge of solicitation of a burglary.

Krogh's attorney had argued his client took a "passive" role in the plan to get Ellsberg's psychiatric records.

"There was no solicitation by Krogh," said Norbert Schlei. "What Mr. Krogh did was acquiesce to something."

Krogh, Ehrlichman, G. Gordon Liddy and David Young are still charged with burglary and conspiracy in the case and Ehrlichman, former top domestic adviser to President Nixon, is also charged with one count of perjury. Kolts refused Friday to dismiss those counts.

Canada has competed in the Olympic Games since 1900.

New order

Overruling special prosecutor Archibald Cox, President Nixon ordered further court action on the Watergate tapes and said he would turn over an authenticated summary of their contents to the courts and the Senate Watergate Committee. Cox, shown here, strongly dissented and hinted that he might resign if the order is accepted by Judge John Sirica. (UPI)

Club members go on tours

LaMONTE — Members of the Nautilus Club here toured several Sedalia institutions Thursday, including State Fair Community College, the new Municipal Building and the Ramada Inn.

A tour of the junior college was presented by Mrs. Jack Blackwell and Fred Davis, SFCC president.

Election is key part of meeting

The Central Missouri Chapter of the Air Force Association will meet at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 8 in the Whiteman AFB Officers' Club to elect officers for the coming year.

Reservations are being requested for meal planning and members are asked to contact Louis Sassi, 563-2923; or Lt. Col. Marvin Hamilton, 563-5189, no later than Nov. 5.

Arguments on election issue are presented

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Oral arguments were presented before the full Missouri Supreme Court Friday in a case to decide whether St. Louis voters must declare a party preference in primary elections.

The suit was filed by the St. Louis Election Board against Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick. The board said it decided on an open primary because the declaration requirement was an invasion privacy.

Kirkpatrick said he would refuse to certify the election results if party preferences are not made, and the suit seeks to force him to do it. Kirkpatrick said he felt the change would be injurious to the two-party system.

David Hemingway, attorney for the Election Board, told the court there is no state law to require voters using voting machines to announce their preference in a primary.

C. B. Burns, an assistant attorney general representing Kirkpatrick, said state law requires a party preference to be stated by those using paper ballots, and it would be a violation of the 14th Amendment if voters were not offered the same protection under the law.

Farmer is seeking his attackers

POND, Mo. (AP) — A St. Louis County hog farmer would like to find two suspected rustlers who put bullet holes in his hat and coat while their helicopter hovered over his pig pen.

Police, however, said a search of the area surrounding James Hagler's farm Friday turned up no clues as to who the men might be that exchanged gunfire with the farmer Thursday night after he discovered the helicopter above his land.

"Someone in the helicopter fired at my husband and put a hole in his coattail," said Mrs. Hagler. Hagler said he returned the fire from the helicopter but someone on the ground then opened fire on him.

The farmer said he called police and an unsuccessful search was made of the area. Several hours later, he said, he went back out to look around and was fired on again, this time getting a bullet hole in his hat.

Hagler said the incident marked the third time in recent weeks that he has seen a helicopter hovering over his 28-acre farm.

Illinois 4-H members get top honors

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Top individual and team honors went to Illinois members in the annual 4-H Club livestock judging contest at the American Royal Live Stock Show Friday.

Four-member teams from 15 states judged beef cattle, swine and sheep and their opinions were compared with those of experts.

Members of the winning Illinois team were Ron Ness, 17, of Big Rock; Ed Bates, 19, Carlinville; Bob Bollivar, 17, Prohetstown; Dave Faber, 18, LeMoille, and Steve Spivey, 18, New Windsor. Their coach was Mel Fin, University of Illinois livestock specialist, Clinton.

Faber was chosen as the top individual. Gary Ekmeier of Minnesota was second and Brent Marvin of Nebraska was third.

Ex-senator reacts to indictment

KANSAS CITY (AP) — W. Fred Phillips, former Oklahoma state senator has presented motions attacking a federal indictment against him.

Judge Richard M. Duncan of U.S. District Court, took the motions under advisement Friday and Phillips, 48, remained free under $5,000 bond.

Phillips was accused of giving false testimony Aug. 1, 1972, to the grand jury that was investigating alleged gambling, prostitution and bribery in northeastern Oklahoma. Phillips represented that district 1969-72.

One of the motions asked the court to suppress a tape recording of a conversation between Phillips and two private club operators.

The conversation allegedly involved a promise by Phillips that he would arrange protection for gambling and liquor violations if he got a $10,000 payoff.

Other motions were for a bill of particulars for inspection and discovery of government evidence and to dismiss the indictment.

Controls sought by Eagleton

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill which would put the export price of U.S. produced fertilizer under price controls will be introduced next week by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo.

The senator said Friday fertilizer exports have increased 30 per cent because Phase 4 controls put a ceiling on domestic fertilizer prices while foreign buyers are willing to pay more.

Agriculture Department economists have forecast a shortage next year of principal types of fertilizers used by American farmers.

Eagleton said his proposed amendment to the Economic Stablization Act would require the Cost of Living Council to subject fertilizer exports to the same price controls.

Other farm belt congressmen have urged de-regulation of fertilizer prices to allow a competitive price climb.

Eagleton said he was concerned that this plan "would lead to unconsionable price increases and windfall prices" and said it might not accomplish the purpose since foreign buyers "would still enjoy the advantage of bidding with devalued American dollars."

He proposed, however, that a higher ceiling price be allowed because the present one "is too low to assure these companies a fair return on their investments, let alone provide incentive for expanding production."

Trash compactor mishap is fatal

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Don Meade, 44, was killed in a trash compacter Friday, police said, while supervising the welding of a loading dock.

Officers said Meade was caught when he tried to retrieve burning paper under the compacter after sparked from the welder ignited the paper.

One-car crash kills young boy

WAMEGO, Kan. (AP) — Chris W. Garmon, 14, of Greenwood, Ind., was killed Friday in a one-car accident on Interstate 70, about 3.6 miles east of Kansas 99 junction.

The Kansas Highway Patrol reported the juvenile was a passenger in a car driven by Diana L. Cozard, 17, of St. Louis. The patrol said Miss Cozard lost control of the vehicle which ran off the road and overturned.

The driver and five other youths were injured but only Miss Cozard was admitted to a Wamego, Kan., hospital.

Opposed to 'plea bargaining'

The plea bargaining demonstrated in the recent case of former Vice President Spiro Agnew met with opposition from 62 per cent of The Democrat-Capital's readers who responded to a survey question.

The survey asked: "Vice-President Agnew's resignation came as the result of a deal with the Justice Department guaranteeing Agnew immunity from federal prosecution on all charges except income tax invasion. Do you believe this 'plea bargaining' method was justified?" It was the 100th survey question in the series.

Mrs. Paul Varner, Florence, wrote: "I believe when someone, regardless of his or her position, (is wrong) they should be punished for breaking laws. These big political men and rich men commit crimes and make deals to get out of being punished. If it were average Joe Public he'd get slapped in jail and pay the fine too. If these men knew they would go to prison it may help to keep them on the right path."

A reader who asked not to be identified wrote, "I believe Mr. Agnew made the supreme sacrifice for exactly what he said. I believe he is statesman enough to put his country's welfare before his own. Heaven will be a mighty lonesome place if only those who do not have 'tax evasion' on their conscience get there."

Ruby Griffin, Route 2, Stover, wrote: "Ex-Vice President Agnew was against granting immunity before and had spoken against it...in granting immunity to the Watergate witnesses, it was said that it was a benefit for the United States and the American people to learn of the criminal activity in our government. I hope they continue until everyone connected with any criminal activity is out to pasture, including our President. If that had been the average American, it would have been different. I don't think we really had to bargain for his resignation."

Another unidentified reader said, "Although I do not agree with it, plea bargaining is evidently an effective way of removing criminals from the scene. I think the main thing is to get rid of them. If plea bargaining has to be used, then use it."

To simulate nuclear blast at Whiteman

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WHITEMAN AFB — A simulated nuclear attack exercise will be held from 6 a.m. to noon Friday, Nov. 2, here. Base personnel and their dependents will simulate their roles in an actual attack.

A base spokesman said sirens will sound for one minute at the beginning exercise, at which time base personnel will go to base fallout shelters and make preparations for a make-believe nuclear explosion.

Hospital personnel will be called on to find and administer treatment to simulated casualties throughout the base. Whiteman AFB firefighting units also will be called on to extinguish simulated fires.

Base officials discourage all unnecessary visits to the base during the exercise. Normal operations are expected to resume when the exercise is completed.

Base officials said members of surrounding communities should not be alarmed "if they hear the sirens or notice unusual activities at Whiteman Nov. 2."

50 years

H. Kyle Vickrey, right, Stover, is shown here being congratulated by Charles G. Knudsen, director of the central region of the National Weather Service in Kansas City, after he completed 50 years of service as a weather observer in Stover. Vickrey is president of the Farmers Bank of Stover and retired recently after 52 years of active duty with the bank.

Airlines reduce flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's three largest domestic airlines, in an effort to raise profits and lower fuel consumption, agreed Friday to cut 82 daily flights on 15 routes.

They also agreed to use smaller aircraft on five other routes.

The agreements, if approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board, could mean less congestion at some of the nation's busiest airports. But it also could mean air passengers will have trouble getting a seat on the flight they want — especially during holiday seasons.

United Air Lines, Trans World Airlines and American Airlines reached the agreements after two days of negotiations. Similar talks are scheduled to start between other carriers Oct. 31.

The biggest cutback will come on the New York City-Chicago run, where the three carriers agreed to eliminate 15 of the 70 daily round trips — or 30 one-way flights per day.

The carriers also agreed to cut three round trips between Philadelphia and Los Angeles, and two round trips on the Boston-San Francisco and Philadelphia-San Francisco routes.

Two round trips each day also would be cut from the following routes: New York-Denver; Washington-Denver; Chicago-Las Vegas, Detroit-Los Angeles, New York-Cincinnati and Boston-Los Angeles. New York-Dayton and Philadelphia-Chicago would lose one round trip and one one-way flight each day. Washington-San Diego and Hartford, Conn.-Los Angeles each would lose one round trip daily.

New York-Las Vegas flights would be reduced on weekdays by two round trips but the number of weekend flights would not be changed.

The three carriers also agreed to substitute smaller airplanes for some of the flights on the Washington-San Francisco, Cleveland-Los Angeles, Chicago-San Diego, Chicago-Phoenix, New York-Phoenix routes.

New runway nearly finished

This aerial view shows the nearly completed 5,000-foot runway and taxiways due for completion within the next few weeks. Taken from the north end of the runway, East Highway 50 can be seen running horizontally across the top portion of the photo. The new landing facilities, shaped like a backward four, are in the left-hand part of the picture while the old runway, parking area and terminal can be seen upper right. The concrete pad near the center of the photo will eventually house the proposed new terminal. The thinner strips running off the main runway at left are taxiways that connect with the old runway. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Airport work is almost finished

By DAVID HAMBY
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

With completion of the new runway at Sedalia Airport only weeks away, the airport is now second only to Columbia Regional in size among Central Missouri airstrips.

According to airport manager Jim Abbas, the new 5,000-foot runway lacks only a small amount of shoulder work, installation and connection of runway lights and the installation of a "wind-T," a night wind-directional indicator, in order to be fully operational.

The runway surface itself is completed and is capable now of handling larger twin-engine aircraft that formerly could not land at Sedalia.

The connection of the runway lights and "wind-T" is the only thing keeping the runway from full operation but, according to Abbas, "We should be fully operational within a week or so after the lighting has been completed."

The new runway is 5,000 feet long and 100 feet wide, as opposed to the old one which is 3,600 feet long and 50 feet wide.

The new runway is much stronger, thus enabling it to handle heavier aircraft. Abbas told The Democrat-Capital that the old runway has a "bearing strength" of 18,000 to 19,000 pounds per square inch, but the new runway has a bearing strength of 50,000 pounds.

What this means to those not familiar with aviation vernacular is that planes such as the F-27 Fairchild, a turboprop passenger aircraft used extensively by Ozark and Frontier Airlines, can now land here.

The new runway is shaped like a backward four with the landing strip forming the stem of the number and taxiways branching off. A large concrete pad has been constructed where the two taxiways intersect.

Abbas said that the pad has been equipped with tie-down facilities and will one day be the location of the proposed terminal building, which will be constructed on the west side of the pad.

"The old runway will be retained as an 'in-use' runway," said Abbas, "providing us with dual-runway capabilities."

Abbas said that the airport is too small still to require traffic control of incoming aircraft.

"It will be up to the pilot to decide which runway he wants to use," said Abbas. "No provisions are made for controlling traffic at this time, although we'd like to have the capability eventually. Of course, as traffic increases, a control tower will be a necessity," he added.

The new north-south runway, part of a $790,000 airport expansion program, has been under construction for slightly more than a year, and was built to accomodate aircraft requiring thicker, larger and longer runways, and to provide a safer landing strip for small aircraft than the older crosswind-plagued runway.

Missouri will be reimbursed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Missouri will receive about $25 million in federal reimbursement for sewage treatment plants built between 1966 and 1972, as a result of a change in Environmental Protection Agency regulations.

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said Friday the EPA has reversed rules that would have disqualified Missouri and 23 other states from receiving the funds.

Ichord also said funding for the state water pollution control program has been increased from the $176,298 first-quarter amounted he announced Oct. 9 to $325,298.

Economist believes high inflation rate will continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key government economist believes the country should escape a business recession next year, but faces a high inflation rate for sometime to come.

The economist, Sidney L. Jones, assistant commerce secretary for economic affairs, also said the Nixon administration's attempt to restrain economic growth runs the risk of bringing higher unemployment.

"We've got to be prepared for an early response in a policy sense if the employment situation deteriorates," Jones said.

He spoke at a news briefing on the Commerce Department's report on the Gross National Product for the third quarter of the year.

The report showed that real economic growth in the economy was 3.6 per cent in the July-September period, which was close to the administration's target growth rate of 4 per cent.

But it also showed inflation during the same period at an annual rate of 6.7 per cent.

Jones called this "awful," adding, "I fear it will remain so in the immediate future."

He said it will be difficult to bring inflation under control because of a worldwide economic boom in which most countries are simultaneously experiencing high demand and inflation. Other problems are in agriculture production, energy needs and "dramatic increases" in investment by industry in environmental and health equipment.

Jones said he thinks the country will escape recession next year if its real economic growth rate can be maintained at about 4 per cent.

The third quarter growth rate of 3.6 per cent compares with the explosive 8.7 per cent growth rate in the first quarter of the year and the low 2.4 per cent rate of the second quarter.

Including increases because of inflation, the overall GNP rose $32 billion, or 10.4 per cent, to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.3 trillion.

That compared with an overall increase of 9.9 per cent the second quarter and 15.2 per cent in the first quarter.

Woman, two children hurt during blaze

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A woman and two children were burned severely in a gasoline fire in the basement of their home Friday night.

Mrs. Mickie Gustus, 21; her daughter, Sharon Gustus, 1, and her nephew, Shawn Carter, 2, all were in critical condition with third-degree burns.

Hospital officials said the children had burns on 95 to 98 per cent of their bodies, and Mrs. Gustus on 90 per cent of her body.

Charles Fay, district fire chief, said the children apparently were playing on a mattress on the basement floor when they overturned a nearby gasoline can. Gasoline splashed on the mattress and the fumes were ignited by a water heater, Fay said.

Firemen said Mrs. Gustus may have been turned while trying to rescue the children.

Smoke inhalation is fatal for man

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jerry D. Wall, 30, of Oklahoma, fell asleep while smoking in bed and died of apparent smoke inhalation at a Kansas City hotel early Friday, police said.

A hotel employe said he smelled smoke about an hour after Wall went to his room. The employe found flames and smoke in the room and called firemen.

Opening lead—♠K

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand was played in a very important team match with IMP scoring.

One declarer arrived at five diamonds, which he made in spite of the bad trump break by setting up a spade to discard a losing heart and taking a successful heart finesse.

The other declarer arrived at three no-trump.

He won the king of spades opening in dummy; led a diamond to his king and was on his way to overtricks when West discarded a club.

Nothing daunted, South led a second spade. West took his jack and played the king of clubs. South let that and the jack both hold, whereupon West cashed his queen of spades and threw South in with the last card in that suit.

South and a lot of experts said South had really bad luck. He did, but he also could and probably should have made the contract.

He should win the second club with his ace and lead a spade. West's best defense would be to win and throw South back in with the last spade. Then South would cash dummy's ace and queen of diamonds and come down to a four-card ending. Dummy would be holding a diamond and three hearts; South a club and three hearts.

East's four cards would have to include the jack of diamonds. If he also held a club he would be down to two hearts and South could take three heart tricks. If he hung onto three hearts the last diamond would be led from dummy and East would have to lead from his king of hearts around to dummy's queen.

Tigers smash Hannibal

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

"We are still very much alive in the conference race," Greg Cook beamed after his Tigers got their ground game into high gear and buried Hannibal 49-6 before a near-capacity Homecoming crowd at Jennie Jaynes Stadium, Friday night.

"Your darn right I feel we can beat them (Columbia Hickman)," the fourth-year S-C coach echoed when asked if he felt the Tigers still have a shot at the Central Missouri Conference championship.

"I felt that way even before this one (Friday night) . . . . I'm sure our players feel the same way," he added.

The Bengals did exactly what they had to do to stay alive in the race, after a 21-7 loss to Jefferson City two weeks ago. But even Ken Scheu, in his first year at Hannibal, probably didn't expect the Tigers to run the ball down their throat as badly as they did.

Behind tailback Dane Henningsen, who ran his season's yardage total to 712 with a 182-yard performance, the Bengals churned out 297 yards on the ground. Added to that was an 84-yard production in the air by starting quarterback Rick McRoy and his back-up Paul Kostopolus.

Henningsen scored twice, as did McRoy, while fullback Rich Loftus and halfbacks Jim Vansell and Marvin Spruell added one each in the rout, which saw the Tigers score the most points by an S-C club since the Tigers defeated Clinton, 53-28 in 1971.

But the offense was only part of the Homecoming show. Defensively, Smith-Cotton held the Bucs to a mere 52 yards on the ground. Quarterback Steve Rampy, a junior, picked the Tigers' secondary for 128 yards, completing eight of 20 passes.

Hannibal managed only nine first downs, three of which came by way of penalties.

Hannibal moved the kickoff from their own 16 to their 25, but the punt on exchange took an S-C bounce and wound up at the Bucs 41. From there, the Tigers put together an eight-play drive — all up the middle with exception of a 12-yard pass to power back Vansell — capped off by a McRoy keeper that covered the final eight yards.

McRoy added the second Tigers' TD at 9:16 of the second period, when he skated for eight yards and a touchdown to cap off a 66-yard drive. Edwards again booted the PAT, making it 14-0.

Henningsen, who picked up 101 yards on 12 carries in the first half, cashed in on a fumble by Hannibal's Rod Knepp. Knepp was dropped by a host of Tiger defenders on a third-and-three play on the Hannibal 39. The ball popped loose, and defensive end Mark Williams recovered the pigskin at the 40.

The Pirates had little success moving the ball on the ground in the first half. But junior quarterback Steve Rampy threaded the Tigers' secondary for 87, completing five of 10 attempts. One was a 41-yard strike to wingback Donald Williams.

The bottom really fell out on the Pirates, who saw their conference record slip to 0-2 and their overall mark dip to 1-5, in the third period, when S-C racked up 21 more points.

Henningsen again went over the strong side of the line scoring from 33 yards out. Again Edwards tacked on the extra point early in the period.

Loftus got into the act at 9:34 of the quarter, when he went in from the two, capping a 31-yard drive, which was set up by a Henningsen fumble recovery. Edwards made it 35-0.

Hannibal, buried inside its own 10, tried a quick kick with about six minutes to go in the period. But it was blocked and sophomore Don Trautman recovered the ball at the Hannibal 17.

Vansell capped a five-play drive scoring from the five. Edwards responded with his sixth conversion of the night, and the Pirates were faced with a 42-0 deficit.

On the final play of the third stanza, Rampy hit tight end Ed Thompson at the goal line for the Pirates only score. Rampy tried a pass for the two-point conversion, but it dropped incomplete in the end zone.

McRoy and Spruell combined for a four-yard TD pass with only 2:06 to go in the game. Edwards completed his seven-for-seven night, splitting the uprights.

"I feel like we have shown steady improvement since the Helias loss," Cook said in his office. "But we have to continue that improvement."

Cook lauded Rampy for his efforts. "We worked all week long with our secondary on pass coverage. I felt like if we could stop them on the ground and force them to the air, they would be playing our game, but I was a little disappointed with our coverage . . . he threaded it pretty well all night . . . he's one of the best quarterbacks we faced this year, especially in the passing department," he said.

The Tigers, now 1-1 in league play, get a break from conference action next week, when they host Kansas City O'Hara.

"We aren't looking past them, but we've got to remember that Hickman is the one after that," Cook added.

Smith-Cotton now stands at 4-2 overall. The win matches Cook's best season's production in the victory department. In 1972, the Tigers finished 4-5-1.

Pleasant Hill wins conference game

BY WARREN RIPLEY
Staff Sportswriter

PLEASANT HILL — All-conference end Willie Cummings hauled in four key passes for 120 yards — including a 70 yard touchdown reception in the first period — to lead the Pleasant Hill Roosters to a 19-6 decision over the Holden Eagles in a key West-Central Conference match-up here Friday night.

Coupled with the sure handed receiving of Cummings, a great effort by the Rooster defense held the best backfield in the loop to only 132 yards total offense.

In another game critical to the conference standings, Knob Noster played a fake field goal attempt into a 21-yard touchdown pass in the first quarter and then added another six in the final period to take a 12-6 victory from El Dorado Springs.

Murry Morris, sophomore end, was on the receiving end of the flea-flicker in the first period and Mike Guill iced the game with nine minutes left in the final stanza on an eight-yard run after the Bulldogs had tied the contest in the third period.

Warrensburg pulled off a minor upset as it rolled over the Clinton Cardinals, 24-0, for its first win of the season.

In the first period of the Rooster-Eagle contest, the two teams developed chronic "fumble-itis" with five fumbles in the opening quarter. Neither team was able to capitalize on the other team's mistakes as the game remained scoreless going into the second period.

In the second stanza the fireworks started. A big draw play on third-and-twelve penetrated the Rooster offense to the Eagle 33 yard line. But two consecutive brilliant defensive plays by Holden's Mike Wheeler threw Pleasant Hill back to its own 38, forcing a punt. At this point Holden received a big break when a bad pass from center forced Cummings into a hurried punt which traveled only 10 yards to give the Eagles excellent field position at the Rooster 48.

Holden drove the ball down to the two-yard line where, on fourth down, quarterback Steve Bagnall rolled out to his right and found Micky Maupins in the end zone to put the Eagles ahead 6-0 with 2:46 left in the first half.

But the host team struck back. With just a little less than a minute gone following Holden's score, Pleasant Hill quarterback Nick Ederer fired a strike to Cummings, who had left his defenders for a 70 yard scoring play. Place-kicker Dean Francy converted the extra-point to give the home team a 7-6 lead at halftime.

The Roosters kept up their momentum when, early in the third period, Francy picked off a Holden pass early in the third period when Bagnall was hit by the Rooster defensive line just as he was releasing the ball. Now the Roosters had the ball at the Holden 20 yard-line.

Once again the Roosters didn't waste time getting on the scoreboard. On the first play, quarterback Nick Ederer faked a hand-off to the right and swung back to his left end where his blockers had formed a perfect sweep. Ederer picked up a couple of good blocks, cut back against the grain, and outran a Holden defensive back to the goal-line. The conversion attempt failed, leaving the score 13-6, Pleasant Hill.

A personal foul penalty on the extra-point attempt forced Pleasant Hill to kick-off from its own 25, giving Holden field position inside the 50 and a chance to take the lead if they converted the drive.

Two runs by Mike Wheeler moved the ball to the Rooster 22 but four plays later the Eagles were brought to a halt at the 15 as the Roosters took over possession.

Ederer suffered a back injury in the third period and sophomore Keith Jones replaced him. Jones fired a 23 yard pass to Cummings to take the Roosters into Holden territory in the fourth period.

Then another sophomore, Larry Ruehter, picked up a big first down on a fourth down run that took the ball to the 25. Once again Jones found the speedy Cummings, this time at the one-yard line. From there Keith Gray, a 210-pound fullback, bulled over to make the score 19-6.

Cherry bomb gives Tigers sixth victory

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — John Cherry unloaded a 35-yard scoring pass and Greg Hill kicked two field goals in lifting seventh-ranked Missouri to a 13-9 victory over Oklahoma State in Big Eight Conference football Saturday.

The stocky Cherry, who tried only eight passes all day, shot his bomb to split end Jim Sharp over the head of defender Darryl Stewart with 9:18 gone in the opening period.

OSU freshman Abby Daigle answered with a 50-yard field goal 4½ minutes later, but the Cowboys — the nation's sixth-ranking rushing team — were thwarted thereafter until the rinal minutes.

Capitalizing on six Cowboy fumbles, the undefeated Tigers moved their lead to 10-3 at halftime on Hill's first field goal, a 27-yarder set up by one of the OSU bobbles.

Linebacker Lynn Evans covered another fumble early in the fourth quarter that set up Hill's second three-pointer, a 37-yard boot to make it 13-3.

After another MU threat was stymied, OSU quarterback Brent Blackman spurred his club 99 yards for the Cowboy touchdown with 1:37 remaining. The 5-foot-11 Blackman passed 31 yards to Tony Boxell to the Mizzou 16 and hit Steve Pettes for 11 yards on the drive. Halfback Leonard Thompson climbed over the left side from six yards out for the score.

The field goals by the 185pound Hill set a Big Eight career record of 27 as Missouri moved to 2-0 in the Big Eight and 6-0 over-all. OSU now is 3-2 and was making its league debut after winning its first three.

Missouri, which mounted only one lengthy drive, seized advantage of an OSU fumble for the Cherry-Sharp touchdown in the opening quarter.

Oklahoma State, with Blackman at the helm, marched 59 yards in the third period only to come up empty handed when a Daigle 37-yard field goal attempt saled wide.

Cherry, who completed five of his eight passes, guided Missouri 79 yards to OSU's one following Hill's second field goal. Blackman then opened up with passes to tiny split end Dave Rosenthal and Thompson galloped 17 yards during the late sweep to the losers' touchdown.

OSU blasted out 229 rushing yards and owned a 302-254 margin in total offense but couldn't compensate for its three lost fumbles.

The Cowboys also missed another chance when Steve Yount intercepted a Charlie Weatherbie pass at the Tiger 35 for Mizzou, which at 6-0 is off to its best start since 1960.

Sooners run past Buffs

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Fullback Wamon Clark hammered for 172 yards and scored one touchdown Saturday as third-ranked Oklahoma shook off a case of first-half fumbilitis and smashed Colorado, 34-7, in a crucial Big Eight football game.

The Sooners held only a 14-7 lead at intermission against the 16th-ranked Buffalos. But the turning point in the game came late in the third period when the Buffaloes had the ball on the Oklahoma two with only one yard needed for a first down. But the Sooner defense wouldn't budge.

Oklahoma's touchdowns came on a tricky 37-yard pass hauled in by tight end Wayne Hoffman and a dazzling 96-yard run with an interception by safety Randy Hughes.

Quarterback Steve Davis scored on a one-yard plunge in the third period, then the game turned into a rout in the final quarter as Clark danced in on a nine-yard run and reserve halfback Clyde Russell scored on a 12-yard scamper.

Colorado took a 7-0 lead in the first period on Bow Matthews' three-yard dive.

Oklahoma moved the ball effectively but lost three scoring opportunities in the first half on two fumbles and a pass interception.

The Sooners ground out 430 yards rushing behind Clark, a junior college transfer from Tyler, Tex., and fleet halfback Joe Washington, who had 118 yards.

K-State 21, Iowa State 19

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Isaac Jackson put on a tremendous offensive show, scoring all three touchdowns in Kansas State's 21-19 Big Eight football victory over favored Iowa State Saturday.

Jackson pulled the Wildcats from behind with a three-yard run in the first quarter, took a 27-yard pass from Steve Grogan in the second and put the game away for Kansas State with a 28-yard burst with only three minutes remaining.

Keith Brumley converted after each touchdown.

Kansas State's defense held the Cyclones in check near the Wildcat goal and Iowa State had to settle for field goals of 22 and 37 yards by Tom Goedjen until the last six minutes of the first half. The Cyclones then traveled 75 yards on seven plays.

Until Jackson's run for his last touchdown, both teams spent the second half trying to hand the contest to the other. Fumbles were frequent.

After Jackson's final score, the Cyclones struck right back and rolled 62 yards on four plays with Mike Strachan romping the final three yards. Goedjen converted.

Kansas State is 4-2 over-all and 1-1 in the Big Eight. Iowa State is 2-3 over-all and 0-2 in the conference.

Jackson rolled up 157 yards on 25 carries. It was the fifth straight game in which he has collected 100 yards or more.

Nebraska 10, Kansas 9

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Nebraska defender Bob Nelson stole a fourth quarter David Jaynes pass Saturday, giving Rich Sanger a chance to kick the winning 28-yard field goal as the 11th-ranked Cornhuskers edged 18th-ranked Kansas 10-9 in a see-saw Big Eight football battle.

Kansas had taken advantage of Nebraska fumbles and an interception to lead 9-7 going into the final period.

The win moved Nebraska to 5-1 for the year, 1-1 in the loop after last week's one-point loss to Missouri. Kansas is 4-2 overall, 1-1 in the Big Eight.

Although Jaynes and Nebraska's David Humm entered the game as the Big Eight's leading passers, Husker Coach Tom Osborne elected to go with a controlled ground game and Humm threw only three passes in the first half, none in the first quarter.

The control game carried Nebraska to a 7-0 first quarter lead on an 80-yard, 15-play drive capped by Tony Davis' two-yard TD run.

Other Nebraska drives were cut off by errors but the Cornhuskers' defense, including pass defenders who had allowed only 23 yards per game, shackled the vaunted Jayhawker aerial game of Jaynes.

Kansas scored a field goal late in the first half to cut the margin to 7-3. A Maury Damkroger fumble of a pitchout gave Kansas possession on Nebraska's 36 and when Nebraska stiffened, Bob Swift kicked a 26 yard field goal.

Late in the third quarter, a Kansas punt was fumbled by Nebraska's Randy Borg and Jayhawker Ken Saathoff recovered on Nebraska's 18. Five plays later, Delvin Williams scored from four yards out to put Kansas ahead 9-7.

Swift's conversion kick, which could have given Kansas an eventual tie, was blocked by Ardell Johnson.

CMSU loses to Northeast

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Larry Jones scored on a 90-yard kickoff return and a 53-yard pass play to spark Northeast Missouri State University to a 21-14 victory over Central Missouri in a Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football game Saturday.

Jones' kickoff TD came after Andrew Hudson tallied on a two-yard dive in the first quarter for the Mules.

Camdenton capitalizes on key Eldon turnovers

By BOB SHACKELFORD
Staff Sportswriter

An opportunistic defensive crew of Camdenton took advantage of Eldon turnovers to rip the Mustangs, 35 to 14, at Camdenton Friday nite. The win boosted the Lakers to a 4-0 conference mark and 6-0 overall while Eldon fell to second place in the Tri-County loop with a 4-1 record and a 4-2 season mark.

The first quarter was a standoff as both teams locked for weaknesses. Eldon got a break near the end of the period, when guard Bill Stark recovered a Brad Carnell fumble on the Camdenton 40, but could not move. They had another chance to score at the start of the second stanza when Cal Whitney blocked a Carnell punt but turned it back to the Lakers when Don Westoff picked off a Steve Vernon aerial and returned it to the Camdenton 43. The Lakers took advantage of the scoring opportunity, using only six plays to cross the goal line, Rusty Sallee crashing the lust three for the TD with 4:30 left in the half. Greg Williams kicked the first of his 5 conversions and the winners were on the board.

The third quarter saw Camdenton put the game out of reach. After receiving the kickoff, Carnell and sophomore Curt Dickerson took the ball to the Eldon 47 where Sallee slanted off right tackle and blasted the remaining distance to score. Westoff picked off another Vernon pass that led to the third Laker touchdown with 5:46 remaining, Mike Kauble blasting the final two yards to run the score to 21-0. The defense got into the act with 2:04 left when Sallee blocked a fourth down Eldon punt and Senior tackle Jerry Cornelius rambled 16 yards to paydirt and turn the contest into a 28-0 whitewash.

The final stanza saw Vernon find the range, with passes to Jim Harvey for 14 yards, Dennis Amsinger for eight and finally to Tom Salisbury for the final 15 yards and the first Mustang TD. A Vernon to Harvey pass was good for the two point conversion. Camdenton's two senior tackles teamed up to complete the Laker scoring; Cornelius slammed into Vernon on a passing situation forcing a fumble and Williams alertly picked it up and rambled into the end zone for the 6 pointer. Eldon did manage another tally before the final gun as Vernon took just three pass plays beginning on their own 38 to score on a 22 yarder to Harvey with :15 left on the scoreboard. The attempted pass for PAT failed and the large homecoming crowd went home with visions of an undefeated season and a possible playoff berth.

A bruising ground game again pulled the Lakers through as they picked up 220 rushing yards and ran off 13 first downs. Eldon was held to but 35 yards on the ground; although they completed 11 of 27 passes good for 156 yards Camdenton intercepted 5 times.

In other Tri-County action, a one-yard quarterback keeper by Wayne Kasper pulled Tipton to a 7-0 win over California. The Cardinals scored on the first play of the fourth quarter, with the extra point coming from Donnie Bracht.

Miami will try to squeeze O.J.

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Buffalo, taking its [illegible] high hopes and O.J. Simpson into Miami Sunday for a showdown with the Dolphins, are out to prove that the Bills are, indeed, for real and a team to be reckoned with — and feared.

And Minnesota, Los Angeles and Houston take their perfect records into Sunday's sixth weekend of National Football League action, too.

The Vikings, who host Philadelphia, and the Rams, who take on Green Bay, have literally been perfect this year, running away in their National Conference divisional races.

The Oilers, on the other hand, have been perfectly awful, losing all five of their games under their former coach, Bill Peterson. Their record is perfect under new field general Sid Gillman. That is to say, the team's general manager, who relieved Peterson of his duties last week, is starting fresh at 0-0 as Houston visits Cleveland.

The rest of Sunday's action has Kansas City at Cincinnati, the New York Jets at Pittsburgh, New Orleans at San Francisco, the New York Giants at Dallas, St. Louis at Washington, Atlanta at San Diego, Baltimore at Detroit and New England at Chicago. On Monday night, Oakland is at Denver.

Simpson, with an incredible 813 yards and six touchdowns, has led the Bills to a 4-1 record, tying the Dolphins for first place in the American Conference East. It's been almost exclusively O.J. on offense. The Bills passing attack is last in the AFC.

"We'll go in with the idea of concentrating on stopping O.J.," Miami Coach Don Shula acknowledges. "But we can't ignore running back Larry Watkins or their passing attack," led by rookie Joe Ferguson.

According to Simpson, though, Shula needn't bother with all that extra thinking. "I'm sure what we'll try to do is what we've been doing — running at them and around them," he says. "If we don't get behind, we're confident we'll get yards on the ground."

Buffalo is off to its best start since its 13-2 American Football League championship team of 1964, but Coach Lou Saban insists:

"Give me another three or four weeks and then I'll be able to say whether or not we're a contender. Like Shula with the Bills, Coach Bud Grant, whose Vikings have made a shambles of the NFC Central race, isn't taking Philadelphia lightly.

"Week to week you can see improvement in the Eagles," he says of the club that is 1-3-1. "They are in the process of putting their team together...You can see their enthusiasm. I think you'll see that, by the end of the year, they'll be a much stronger team."

And Like Saban, Philadelphia quarterback Roman Gabriel views this game as a true test. "We'll find out how good we are this week," he says. "The Vikings are tough, they hit hard. But it's a good game for a young team like ours."

The Rams, too, aren't about to think of the Packers as any kind of pushover. "Green Bay has allowed an average of only one touchdown a game. And the Packers have a very fine secondary," says Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox, hinting that he may return to the running game that carried the Rams to four straight victories before the passing tandem of John Hadl and Harold Jackson broke loose.

Even Cleveland Coach Nick Skorich sounds worried about the Oilers, who have managed just one victory in their last 19 games. "They're coming in here with nothing to lose and I would expect a very hard battle with them," he says.

Gillman realizes he's got his work cut out for him. "I don't claim to be a Messiah, but we are in a winning business and when you are 1-18 something has to be done."

Kansas City is clinging to first place in the AFC West but faces a hungry Cincinnati squad, challenging for the lead in the Central Division following last week's upset over Pittsburgh. The Steelers are at home against the Jets instead of in New York because Shea Stadium was set aside to avoid a possible conflict with the World Series.

New Orleans has flexed its muscles twice in the past two weeks to move into a tie with San Francisco, this week's foe, and Atlanta, all at 2-3. Dallas, a game behind first-place Washington in the NFC East, has to contend not only with a strong Giants' defense but may have to face Randy Johnson, who returned this week to resume his role as Norm Snead's backup quarterback.

St. Louis, stung last week by Gabriel's last-play touchdown pass, is still in the NFC East picture and a victory over the Redskins will bring it into much sharper focus for the Cardinals. Atlanta, which had gone three weeks without a touchdown before exploding last Sunday against Chicago, has found a new starting passer in Bob Lee, who will be matched against San Diego rookie Dan Fouts.

Both Baltimore and Detroit have fallen out of contention but they have one recent battle for incentive. The Colts outlasted the Lions 32-28 in a preseason game. Both Abe Gibron of Chicago and Chuck Fairbanks of New England are looking for ways to rouse their clubs, each slumping with 1-4 records.

Oakland rally

New York Mets pitcher Tom Seaver starts to slip and fall fielding a grounder by Oakland A's Dick Green (L) as A's Vic Davalillo heads for third base on the play in the 2nd inning Saturday. Seaver threw Green out at first, but the A's won the game 3-1.

(UPI)

A's victory evens series

OAKLAND (AP) — Reggie Jackson smashed a pair of doubles Saturday, driving in two Oakland runs and the A's kept their World Series hopes alive with a 3-1 victory over the New York Mets in the sixth game of baseball's championship showdown.

The A's triumph tied the best-of-seven Series at three victories apiece and sent it into a decisive seventh game Sunday at 4:40 p.m., EDT. Left-handers Jon Matlack of the Mets and Ken Holtzman of the A's, who have split two decisions so far, will clash in that one.

Jackson ripped Tom Seaver for RBI doubles in the first and third innings and Oakland pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter made the slim two-run lead stand up until the eighth.

The ace of Oakland's pitching staff, a 21-game winner in each of the last three seasons, simply overpowered the Mets, limiting them to three hits until the eighth.

Then, with one out, Ken Boswell batted for Seaver and lashed a single to right. Oakland Manager Dick Williams, thinking Hunter might be tiring, hustled to the mound and decided to go to his bullpen. Williams called for left-hander Darold Knowles and Wayne Garrett greeted him with a single to center that sent Boswell to third. Felix Millan poked Knowles' next pitch for a single to right, scoring Boswell and sending Garrett to third.

The Mets' hottest batter, Rusty Staub, was next. The red-haired slugger, with nine hits in 21 World Series at-bats, got three swings at Knowles and missed on each of them for the Mets' second out.

Williams went to his bullpen again for Rollie Fingers, the reliever with the handlebar mustache.

Fingers threw just one pitch and was out of the inning when Cleon Jones flied to center.

The A's quickly got that run back in their half of the eighth against Tug McGraw, the Mets' top reliever. Jackson opened the inning with his third hit of the game, a single to center. Don Hahn let the ball get past him and it rolled all the way to the wall as Jackson steamed into third on the two-base error.

After Gene Tenace walked, Jesus Alou batted for Vic Davalillo and flied to left. Jackson tagged up and scored on the catch, restoring the A's two-run lead.

It was Jackson who provided Oakland with the two-run edge in the first place.

The outspoken A's slugger had four straight hits in the second game of the Series but had been held in check in the next three. He broke loose against Seaver, the ace of the New York staff.

Hunter had weaved his way out of a jam in the top of the first when the Mets had runners at first and second with one out.

Then, in the bottom of the first, the A's went to work on Seaver.

Rudi circled the bases and Jackson stumbled as he rounded second and had to settle for a double.

Two innings later, Jackson gave them more to cheer about. With two out in the third, Bando singled up the middle on a 2-2 pitch. Again Jackson jumped on Seaver's delivery and slammed it to right field.

Staub, playing with a sore shoulder, fielded the ball and the A's took advantage of his ailing arm with Bando dashing all the way home for another run and a 2-0 lead as Jackson arrived at second with another double.

That would be all the runs Hunter got to work with, but the way Catfish was throwing, they were more than enough.

Hunter mowed down 11 Mets in order from the first inning until the fifth, when Jerry Grote opened with a single.

Hunter left him stranded and retired seven more in a row before allowing another New York hit.

When he faltered in the eighth, surrendering the pinch single to Boswell, Williams lifted Hunter in a hurry, keeping intact the Oakland pitching staff record of never having completed a World Series game.

Jackson shuts mouth, relies on bat to speak

OAKLAND (AP) — Reggie Jackson has a reputation for a big bat and a big mouth. He owns up to both.

Jackson is the Oakland A's best hitter. But, until Saturday, he had been less than sensational in both the American League playoffs and the World Series. He rapped three hits, drove in two runs and scored a third as the A's beat the New York Mets 3-1 and sent the Series into a seventh and deciding game Sunday.

What was the difference between the Jackson who wasn't hitting and one who was?

In effect, Jackson said, he decided to shut his mouth and concentrate on swinging his bat.

"I took batting practice today instead of talking with the writers," said the slugger who slammed 32 home runs, drove in 117 and hit .293 this past season.

Jackson admitted being split down the middle mentally during this 70th World Series. He said he has been thinking of the A's off-field controversies half the time, and the Mets' Tom Seaver the other half.

"When you went out on the field you were asked about the controversy," Jackson said. "It was a pain. I couldn't wait for the World Series to get over. I just want to slide, get dirty, make throws and catch the ball. This off-the-field stuff has taken the little boy out of the game. I lost my edge."

Jackson was only five-for-25 before Saturday's game, and he got four of those in the second game Oakland loss. He was roundly criticized in the media.

"I really wasn't thinking of the criticism," said the one-time bonus kid from Arizona State. "So I hadn't hit in the playoffs or the series. Reggie Jackson just hadn't hit. Give the Mets pitching some credit.

In Andrews case

Finley defends actions

"It is my ballclub, my money and I don't appreciate anyone telling me how to spend my money to run my business," Finley declared. "As long as I own this ballclub, I will operate it my way."

Finley confirmed that Dick Williams had told the A's players that he would not be back after this season and the owner said, in two meetings with his manager in the last two days, he had assured Williams he would not stand in his way to another opportunity. Williams is reportedly headed for the New York Yankees.

The controversial owner of the American League champions staunchly defended his widely criticized actions and motives in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press upon returning to his home base Friday for the sixth game of the World Series against the New York Mets.

He said instead of his embarrassing Andrews, the reserve infielder whose two errors cost the A's the second game of the series, it was he who was embarrassed by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"I don't think the baseball commissioner treated us fairly in turning down this request," he said. "He's talking about embarrassing Andrews. We're not out to embarrass Andrews. But I sure as hell was embarrassed by what he did.

"He released his letter (a formal letter denying the A's request to put Andrews on the disabled list) before I ever received it."

After Andrews' two errors, which allowed three runs to score in the Mets' 10-7 second-game victory, Finley had the infielder examined by the team physician and got the player to sign a doctor's statement that he was injured. Andrews accused Finley of encouraging him to falsify his medical condition for the good of the team.

Finley contended that he did not fire Andrews, but merely made a legal request to have him placed on the disabled list, which was denied by the commissioner.

The A's owner indicated he held no bitterness toward Andrews and was not disturbed when Andrews came to bat as a pinch-hitter in the fourth game and drew a resounding ovation from the sellout crowd at Shea Stadium.

"I was hoping Andrews would put the ball out of the park," he said, "and had he put it out of the park, I would have had to eat crow — and I would have enjoyed eating that crow."

Finley covered a broad range of subjects as he lounged in his shirtsleeves in his Oakland motel suite, a stone's throw from the Coliseum, site of the Series. He talked of his own business practices, motivations and goals.

He will not sell the Oakland A's franchise, he insisted, despite a recent mild heart attack and intense pressures from his Chicago insurance business and sports operations, but probably will dispose of the Memphis Tams of the American Basketball Association and the California Golden Seals in the National Hockey League.

"Any person who owns (teams) in two sports, the second sport is needed just about as much as a hole in the head."

Finley said he will continue as the A's general manager as well as owner.

Q — It is understood that unmarried minors are asking for and getting prescriptions for birth control pills from some local physicians without parental knowledge. As a mother, I would like answers to the following questions:

A physical examination should precede prescription of the pill. How many local physicians perform an examination first? Are the youngsters offered other methods of birth control? Are the girls cautioned that the pill may be dangerous to their future health? Are the youngsters reminded that venereal disease is not prevented by the use of the birth control pill? — Mrs. J. B.

A — Dr. Robert Stockwood of the Women's Clinic told Hot Line that he insists on a complete physical examination before prescribing birth control pills.

Dr. Stockwood said other methods of birth control generally are not offered to women "mainly because they are not as effective" as the birth control pill. He said girls are counseled on the possible hazards of the pill.

In answer to the last question, Dr. Stockwood said he usually does not feel it is necessary to inform young women that use of the pill does not prevent veneral disease because "most youngsters are not promiscuous." However, he said that when he conducts a family planning clinic, he does counsel women in this regard.

Dr. Stockwood added that girls who are at least 16 (legal age for marriage) have the right to ask for what they need for their bodies, without parental consent.

"I don't have a campaign to put everyone on the pill, but at the same time I don't want girls to think they can't come for help. We want to help them (BEFORE) they get pregnant," he said. Dr. Stockwood stressed that he felt prevention is better than abortion.

Q — Why don't school buses (in the Sedalia School District) honk when the children are still inside the house? Also, do school buses have to obey speed zones? — D. P.

A — Dave Palmer, manager of School Transportation Inc., the busing company, said, "Our policy has been that drivers are not to stop on an individualized basis." He said drivers will wait if a parent indicates to the driver that the children will be out of the house in a short while. However, Palmer said that because the buses run on "very tight schedules . . . we can't give personalized attention. We're not a taxicab business."

Palmer said bus drivers must obey all speed zones and should always drive at the safest rate of speed, especially in bad weather.

Rand study is under fire

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Rand Corp., study painting a black picture for the economic future of St. Louis has been soundly rapped by the city's board of aldermen.

The aldermen reacted to the report released last week by calling it a "manifestation of crabgrass philosphy" in a resolution introduced and unanimously approved Friday.

Rand's conclusion that St. Louis was declining and would never regain its status as the economic center of the area was false, the aldermen said, because the California-based firm did not take into consideration recently announced plans for $400 million in new construction in the downtown area and "the resolve of our people."

The resolution thanked the firm for "spending its time and treasure in studying St. Louis and fashinoning its obituary," but noted the resolution was based on "the demonstrably false assumption that the future of all large American cities lies in suburbanization."

New spotlight on energy crisis

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A rapid-fire series of events in the Middle East and Washington turned a harsh spotlight on the United States' energy worries this past week.

On Tuesday, six Persian Gulf nations unilaterally announced price and tax changes which sharply increased the cost to Western oil companies and other buyers of standard light Arabian crude oil.

The next day, 10 Arab countries declared a 5 per cent reduction in oil production effective immediately, with further 5 per cent monthly cuts to come each month until and unless Israel were to evacuate the territories it occupied in the 1967 war.

And on Thursday, Saudi Arabia, by far the Middle East's biggest oil producing country, announced its own oil production cutback — by 10 per cent immediately, with further 5 per cent monthly reductions to start in December "unless the United States modifies its current position in the Middle East War."

The announcement added that if it weren't successful soon in getting the United States to change its position, "the Saudi Arabian kingdom will stop the flow of oil to America."

Government and oil industry experts were still studying the complex situation at the weekend. But it was generally agreed that, while American businesses and consumers wouldn't feel many dramatic effects immediately, the series of developments still contained plenty of cause for concern.

Figures released by the Nixon administration last Monday listed Arab oil production as accounting for only 6 per cent of the 17 million barrels of oil consumed each day in the United States.

William Simon, chairman of the President's Oil Policy Committee, said the nation could get along on as little as 14 million barrels daily if its businesses and people were willing to make an all-out conservation effort.

Thus the early impact was expected to be much less painful in this country than in some of the nations of Europe and Asia. In Great Britain, for example, where the bulk of the oil consumed comes from the Middle East, there were immediate expectations of sharp increases in the price of gasoline, and rationing.

The main U.S. worries centered on the longer term outlook. Forecasts in Washington see a rapidly growing American dependence on oil from the Middle East through the rest of this decade.

The Senate has already passed a similar measure, as Americans contemplate the possibility of heating oil shortages in the approaching winter.

Many executives, educators and college graduates themselves have discovered (others have yet to discover) that Army ROTC actually adds an important dimension to a college education.

Drawing on methods developed and refined throughout history, Army ROTC provides instruction in the principles of leadership and in the techniques of organizing, managing and motivating others. This instruction, not found in other college courses, is as valuable to young people in a civilian career as it is to an officer.

BETTER PAY

An Army officer earns more than $700 a month to start, including subsistence and quarters allowance—more than a lot of college graduates who are working in executive training programs. And with Army ROTC behind you you'll have had your executive training during college.

Whether you decide to make the Army a career, or take your leadership experience out into the civilian job market, you'll be way ahead.

Six children are served by new day care facility

By MARY LOU VOSSMEYER
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The Sunrise Day Care Center is now two weeks old and the Rev. Marvin Albright, executive director of the Sedalia Housing Authority, said it accommodates six pre-school children. He anticipates three to five more in the next week.

Mrs. Andrea Burns, director of the center, said she feels enrollment will climb even higher "once people find out where we are and how we operate."

Mr. Albright explained that the center is licensed to care for 17 pre-schoolers, and five of them may be as young as two years of age. Sedalia's other day care centers, Minniolia and Melita Day Nurseries, are licensed only for children three years or older.

Mr. Albright said that the standards of the day care center's staff are set by the state, according to the type of license requested. He added that staff requirements at Sunrise are somewhat higher than other centers because Sunrise takes in two-year-olds.

The staff at Sunrise includes a director, teacher, two part-time aids and a cook. Mrs. Burns said, however, that the center as yet has no cook and that one of the aides prepares the meals. No applications have been made for the cook's job, she said. Mrs. Burns added that she was advised by the state that it was not necessary to hire a cook until at least nine children are enrolled in the center.

Mrs. Elmer Draffen, chairman of the center's board of directors, said she could not release information regarding salaries of staff members until she discusses the question with the rest of the board. It was reported earlier the City Council allocated $10,000 from revenue sharing funds to run the center.

Mr. Albright said the present type of license was chosen partly to fulfill a need and partly to avoid conflict with other day care centers here. He said he "felt there was a need for taking care of two-year-olds. . . and we knew, too, that to take the same number and age as other day care centers, we might run into conflict with them." There also was a definite need for a day care center in the housing project center, Mrs. Burns said.

"People in the housing project area were asking for a day care center," she said.

The center, which is open from 6:45 a.m. until 5:15 p.m., is located in the Anthony Buckner Apartments at 357 West Saline. There are many mothers who could work but are not able to transport their children to other day care centers. The location of Sunrise is more convenient for them, Mr. Albright said.

He added that the center is not just "a babysitting service" and one of the stipulations for accepting children to the center is that the mother must be working.

Mrs. Kathy Castor, the center's teacher, pointed out that Sunrise provides an educational program for the children in addition to playtime activities. The children also get two snacks and one hot meal each day.

Mrs. Castor explained that the center's structural learning program provides a variety of study units. "For example, during fire prevention week, our program centered around safety in the kitchen, or garage. . . or other parts of the home," Mrs. Castor said.

The children currently enrolled at Sunrise are between the ages of two and six. Two of them are two-year-olds, Mrs. Castor said.

Mr. Albright also said that one of the six children now attending the center is from outside the Anthony Buckner Apartments and that he has received a number of inquiries from people who live outside of the housing complex. He added the center is open to all children, regardless of whether they live in the housing complex.

Once the day care center is on its feet and the initial $10,000 grant is spent, it will operate as a non-profit institution and will be supported completely through private donations.

He added that the Open Door Service Center has helped the day care center by purchasing most of the equipment (more than $700 worth) they are using. Mr. Albright said he has no idea how long the revenue sharing funds will last. He said the board of directors has not yet discussed the steps that will be taken once these funds are depleted.

Cattle hauling charges filed

KANSAS CITY, (AP) — David William Tolleson, 29, Dallas, Texas, was charge with hauling some stolen cattle in interstate commerce Friday in Kansas City.

The cattle were reported stolen from Mar Top Ranch in Frisco Tex., and included a registered Charolais valued at $25,000, federal authorities said.

Tolleson was arrested Thursday night at a Kansas City hotel. A trailer parked near the hotel contained three cows and two calves, the officers said.

Tolleson was released on $10,000 bond Friday after he appeared before U.S. Magistrate Calvin K. Hamilton.

Building of boat long-term project

OWATONNA, Minn. (AP) — Dr. Daniel K. Halvorsen says the sail boat he's building won't become obsolete during his or his children's lifetime, but the garage in which he's constructing it will be when he finishes the ship.

The garage will have to be torn down to get the boat — which is 14 feet from keel to bow and 47 feet from stem to stern — to water.

The hull is now finished and when the boat is seaworthy it will weigh 30 tons and be large enough to accommodate 12 adults on a three-month voyage.

He's been working on the boat during his spare time for 13 years. He doesn't know when it will be completed and he says he isn't concerned about that.

"It just demonstrates what can be done in leisure time, even in a profession that doesn't allow too much time," said the Owatonna physician.

"We wanted a boat that was safe at sea and one that had lines — particularly underwater lines — that were similar if not identical to the Viking long boat," he said.

Halvorsen, his wife, two sons and a daughter have all worked on the boat although he has done most of it himself.

Halvorsen talked to sailors from around the world about the boat and hired a marine architect and naval engineer to design it from specifications he drew.

Halvorsen built the ballast or backbone from 12,000 pounds of concrete and steel. "If we hit a rock or coral, it would undoubtedly hit on this steel-reinforced concrete. It might jar things a little, but it probably wouldn't hurt anything," he said.

The hull of the boat is made from oak — all from Steele County. "We even picked out most of the oak trees," he said.

"Most of it is straight grained oak. The trees were cut and logs laid out long before we even started the ship.

Smithson talks on junior high

Problems faced by the Junior High School when it opened last year and improvements achieved this school year were described by Principal Larry Smithson at a meeting of the Community Retired Teachers Association Wednesday at the Farm and Home Building.

Smithson, who had been a counselor at Smith-Cotton High School, was the only administrator in the building when the school opened last year. This year, there is an assistant principal and two counselors.

Innovations at the school include contract grading and team teaching. Under the contract grading system, the teacher lets each student know exactly how much he must accomplish in order to achieve a certain grade. No student can contract for less than an M and a student who finishes early may contract for a higher grade.

Team teaching is used primarily in mathematics, Smithson explained. Two teachers work with 90 per cent of the students in a class, one assistant takes the top 5 per cent of the class and another assists the bottom 5 per cent.

Georgetown church is nuptial setting

(Classic Studio)

MRS. JAMES O. WRIGHT
Miss Linda Diane Buehn

(Democrat-Capital Service)

GEORGETOWN — United Methodist Church here was the setting for the early evening Oct. 13 nuptials of Miss Linda Diane Buehn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin E. Buehn, Route 5, Sedalia, and James O. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wright, 718 East 10th, Sedalia.

The Rev. Jerri Jones officiated before the altar decorated with yellow spider mums, bronze daisies and yellow bows. Mrs. Donald Lewis, organist, accompanied Miss Marsha Cole, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length white delustered satin gown with pearl embroidered lace outlining the V neckline of the fitted bodice, accenting the deep back pleat and hemline of the belled skirt. The long fitted sleeves came to a point over the hands and featured tiny satin buttons, while her chapel cap of delustered satin was embroidered with pearls and edged in lace. Her three tiered veil was of bridal illusion. The bride carried bronze daisies and yellow baby mums tied with yellow ribbons.

A reception followed the ceremony at Georgetown school, where servers were Miss Allison Fischer and Miss Nora Anderson. Miss Judy Tripp attended the guestbook and Mrs. Ron Imhauser assisted with gifts.

The couple will reside in Kansas City, where the groom is employed with Nearing and Staats Architects.

Fall colors complement ceremony

A 15-branched candelabrum decorated with yellow and bronze fugi mums, orange gladioli and emerald and moss green velvet centered the altar of East Sedalia Baptist Church Oct. 6 for the wedding of Miss Paula Jean Deuschle and Dean Guier.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Deuschle, Pilot Grove, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guier, Sweet Springs.

The Rev. George Turner and the Rev. Ralph Sipes performed the evening ceremony before the altar arrangement which included nine branch candelabra with the bride's flowers accenting each side of the altar. Two fall arrangements were centered in front of the baptistry and moss green velvet bows marked the family pews. Mrs. Glenn Housworth, cousin of the bride, was organist and Mrs. Danny Calbe and Mrs. Harry Anderson were vocalists.

Given in marriage by her fahher, the bride wore a maracine gown of double knit matte jersey. Venice lace formed a high collar, cuffed the long fitted sleeves and accented the bodice in a deep V. The skirt fell softly from the raised waist and swept to a chapel length train. The bride carried a romance crescent of golden wave roses and white fuji poms.

Maid of honor Miss Christie Deuschle, sister of the bride, wore a floor length forest green polyester double knit gown with ruffled cap sleeves and a yellow lace hat accented with a long yellow satin ribbon. Bridesmaids Miss Caroline Potter and Miss Sydney Green wore dresses similar to the maid of honor's and moss green hats. All carried fall colonials of bronze daisy poms, yellow snowflake poms and bronze starflowers and straw flowers tied with moss green velvet. Flower girl Miss Kimberly Sue Deuschle, sister of the bride, wore a floor length moss green pinafore style gown with puffed sleeves and a yellow hat. She carried a basket of golden wave rose petals.

Best man was Roy Guier, brother of the groom; Roger Deuschle, brother of the bride, and Wayne Goosen were groomsmen. Performing ushering duties were Stanley Deuschle, brother of the bride, Victor Rowden and Jim Gehlken. Candlelighters were Kelly Guier and Berry Guier, brothers of the groom.

A reception followed the ceremony at Maxine's Gourmet House, where a four tier white wedding cake with yellow roses flanked by two candelabra with yellow and white candles decorated the bride's table. A buffet table held two bouquets of bronze star flowers, orange carnations and gladioli with yellow and orange candles. The coffee table held a sterling silver service and a bouquet of flowers. Servers were Miss Rhonda Snapp, Mrs. Wayne Dierker, sister of the groom, Mrs. Martin Klein and Mrs. Milfred Griggs, while Mrs. Richard Rehkau, cousin of the bride, attended the guestbook and Miss Joyce Aurig, cousin of the bride, and Miss Julie Cook assisted with gifts.

For traveling on a honeymoon to Colorado, the bride wore a brown sports outfit with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow snowflake poms and bronze daisy poms accented with orange starflowers.

The couple will be at home near Sweet Springs, where the groom farms. The bride attends Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg.

Rear view blindness common

By PETER WEAVER

"I just didn't see that other car."

How many times police have heard drivers make this shocked statement after a crash. It may sound like an excuse. But it often isn't. According to Charles H. Kaehn, safety standards engineer and visibility expert with the Department of Transportation, "22.5 per cent of all motor vehicle crashes (including some 6-million cars, trucks and buses) occur because of difficulties with the rear field of vision."

Perhaps you've noticed the "blind spots" when you attempt to see if a car is coming up on you from the rear. On the driver's side, the blind spot occurs when the passing car is far enough forward to be out of the rear-view mirror and yet cannot be seen by your left eye's peripheral vision. This is the most crucial spot if you're trying to change lanes.

On the other side, it's even worse. Some cars such as the fastback and Landau roof types block a whole chunk of your vision in the right rear quadrant. If you change lanes or make a turn, you might get hit and can honestly say: "I just didn't see that other car."

The Department of Transportation is conducting a series of tests with various types of mirror devices to see if these dangerous, rear-view blind spots can't be eliminated. Cars equipped with periscope devices coming through the roof are being tested as are cars with combinations of inside, outside mirrors which are plane surfaced and convex.

"The periscopes give you a wide-angle, one-glance view of everything to the rear," says engineer Kaehn, "but they would be expensive to install." Convex mirrors (wide-angle "bug eyes") give a wide angle of vision but throw off your distance perception. You see the car in the blind spot but it looks much farther back than it is.

"The best bet for motorists right now," says Kaehn, "is to get a pair of rectangular outside mirrors — one on each side." These mirrors, he explains, should be around five inches wide and three inches high. They should not be made of plastic and should not be tinted.

The inside mirror should be wide enough to take in the entire rear window or windows. "The best inside mirrors," says Kahn, "are the ones with flexible double-jointed arms so they can be raised or lowered to suit various size drivers."

If you're buying a new car, you might be able to get these bigger mirrors from the manufacturer. If you can't, they can be purchased through auto parts and accessory stores for around $9 each on up to a super deluxe model made by Mercedes Benz priced at $45 (it has interior adjustment nob, is 6-by-4 inches and has a "break-away" spring so pedestrians won't be impaled).

Kaehn says motorists should also be careful when they're buying a new car. "Get inside and see how much vision you have to the rear," he says. Some cars such as the Mustang Mach I, Camaro sports and other stylized cars have poor rear vision and are a menace without double mirrors. BMW, Mercedes Benz, some intermediate size G.M. Models and the latest Lincoln Continentals have much more glass and better vision in the rear.

If you have a recreational vehicle such as a motor home, camper, bus or trailer, you need special truck-type mirrors. These are called "West Coast" mirrors and are something like 16 inches high by 6 inches wide. The best truck mirrors have a smaller convex "bug-eye" mirror beneath the regular mirror to cover the blind spots. The convex mirror serves as a warning device and the big, plain mirror gives you distance and depth perception.

How good is your car's rear vision? Give yourself a test to be sure you can see that "other car" the next time you change lanes.

Black culter plan decided for college

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Administrators at Southeast Missouri State University have agreed to form a black culture center on the campus and establish a committee to look into a list of grievances and demands presented by black students.

The agreement Friday ended demonstrations by the Association of Black Collegians on the campus that began Wednesday over a purported demeaning statement on the student's manner of dress voiced by Mark Scully, president of the school.

The demonstrations resumed Thursday after Scully denied making the remark and refused to apologize for it. The students then submitted their list of demands, which were eventually resolved Friday in a meeting between ABC representatives and Dean Carroll Walker.

ABC President Roger Cayce said Friday, however, there will be ill feeling toward Scully until an apology is received.

Pranksters start rash of sightings

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Paducah Police have been besieged with calls from persons who said they sighted unidentified flying objects. But the UFOs turned out to be just so much hot air.

They were balloons sent up by pranksters.

"I've got 100 calls at least, if not more," said Sgt. David Sweat said Friday night. "We'll probably be bugged all night and plum up into the morning with it."

Sweat said about three youngsters apparently filled large balloons with helium and placed flashlights inside. About 15 of the glowing orbs continued to float in the skies and the pranksters were still at large.

Student reports

Ron Hieronymus, Route 5, will be included in the cast of "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," which will be presented Nov. 14-17 at Northwest Missouri State University, Maryville.

The University has entered the production in the national competition of the American College Theatre Festival which involves regional competition, eventually leading to the finals at the Eisenhower Theater of the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. Hieronymus will play Deacon Ball in the production, which includes a cast of 25.

Noah Webster, father of American lexicography, was also a journalist and author of schoolbooks.

People in the news

MIAMI (AP) — President George Meany of the AFL-CIO, picked up the telephone and on the other end was Golda Meir, prime minister of Israel.

Meany interrupted the labor federation's convention Friday to inform the 2,000 delegates of the call. He said Mrs. Meir expressed appreciation for the AFL-CIO's support of Israel in its current war with her Arab neighbors. Meany said:

"She says to tell you, 'Our boys are doing wonderful and don't worry, we will make it.'"

Earlier this week the AFL-CIO urged the American government to give Israel full U.S. support in the current war.

LONDON (AP) — Actress Liza Minelli heads for Israel today on a tour to entertain Israeli troops, a member of her staff says.

Meanwhile, in Rome, actress Elizabeth Taylor, a Jewish convert, gave a private fund-raising party for Israel in a luxurious hotel Friday night.

Miss Minelli, 27, who won an Academy Award for her role in the movie "Cabaret," is not Jewish. But friends say the daughter of the late Judy Garland has stayed on an Israeli kibbutz and has friends in Israel. At Miss Taylor's party, the Israeli ambassador to Italy and his wife were among the guests.

DETROIT (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower says Americans should "feel sympathy" for former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. "People shouldn't judge him until they know all the facts," she said.

Mrs. Eisenhower spoke about Agnew after delivering a speech Friday at a luncheon for the Curtis Publishing Co., for which she is a $10,000-a-year assistant editor.

BOSTON (AP) — Heart specialist Dr. Paul Dudley White remains "moderately to seriously ill" five days after suffering his second stroke in less than a year.

White, 87, is in Massachusetts General Hospital. A hospital spokesman said the stroke had affected his speech and the right side of his body.

New action may avert a federal suit

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Real Estate Board of St. Louis has avoided a suit by the antitrust division of the Justice Department by a proposed consent judgement filed in U.S. District Court.

The proposed consent judgement, which comes up for court approval in 30 days, prohibits the real estate board from fixing fees for the sale, rental or management of real estate. It was filed Friday.

The board had denied government allegations that it and its 6,000 member brokers and salesmen had for many years conspired to fix and maintain uniform commission and fees and otherwise limit competition among the members.

A spokesman for the Justice Department said the consent judgement prohibits any fixing activity—but does not constitute an admission of guilt on the part of the real estate board.

The spokesman said the St. Louis case is the ninth such case to be settled by consent judgement across the county. He said two more cases are pending in New York and Norfolk, Va.

Actor can cope with handicap

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor James Stacy had just come out of surgery. "I remember shaking my head and saying, 'Oh, no! Oh, no!'"

For the first time, Stacy realized that a traffic accident had cost him his left arm and left leg. "My feeling had always been that death I could take; being maimed was not part of my life plan....

"I was lying there thinking about being a half-man, and I wondered what kind of person I would turn out to be. We all look for growth within, and I thought it might be an interesting experience. I decided I wanted to live so I could see what my life would be like."

Stacy, 36, who starred in the "Lancer" television series and played opposite Hayley Mills in Walt Disney's "Summer Magic," was severely injured Sept. 28 when police said his motorcycle was struck head-on by a car.

Stacy's passenger, Clair Cox, 27, was killed. The driver of the car has been charged with felony manslaughter.

Stacy, talking to newsmen Friday for the first time since the accident, recalled the third operation required by the mishap:

"I thought I could feel my mind slipping away from my body and I thought it was all over. I must have said something because the doctor flicked my nose and said, 'You're not going anywhere.' After he had flicked my nose three times, I said, 'Okay, I want to live.'"

As he lay on the pavement after the accident, Stacy said he knew his left leg was missing. "You can get my leg back on, can't you?" he asked the paramedics. "Yes, don't worry," he was told.

Later, he was told that the leg had been severed in such a way that it could not be replaced. Not until later did he realize he had also lost his left arm.

He said he was told that because of his athletic background, he would have little trouble adapting to artificial limbs. And so he's planning his comeback as an actor.

Stacy, former husband of actresses Kim Darby and Connie Stevens, said he hopes to leave the hospital next Tuesday and will start training immediately to use artificial limbs. He said he has already received "a lot of amputee scripts."

"The Hollywood people have been simply beautiful," he said. "People in our business are busy all the time and we don't always see each other. But when something like this happens, they're there to help. They're just beautiful."

Canada exceeds the area of the United States, including Alaska, by more than 200,000 square miles.

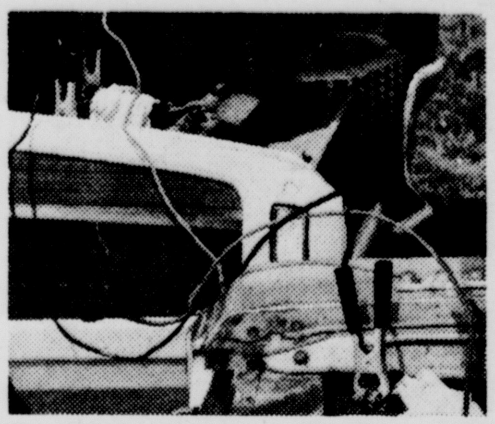
Outwit Winter

Now's the time to make sure your car's up to the rough weather ahead. So you'll enjoy safe, trouble-free driving. And reduce harmful engine emissions. All winter long.

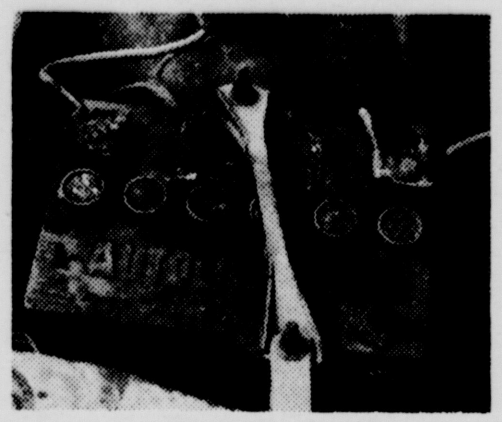
CHARGE

If you've ever had to decide between the inconvenience of a car that won't start and the potential complications of using battery booster cables, here's some advice.

Once you learn the proper way of using the life-giving cables, the risk of botching the job is minimal. A word of caution before you even begin: Buy the best cables available. Poor quality cables won't last long and can do damage to the car's electrical system.



When using cables make sure the vehicles are not touching one another to avoid creating a dangerous electric circuit. Then make sure all battery-operated accessories like lights, radios and heater are turned off. Set your parking brakes and have transmission in neutral or park.



Locate on both batteries the Positive and Negative terminals. These may either be indicated by the letter POS for Positive and NEG for Negative, or by the plus sign (+) for Positive and minus sign (—) for Negative. It may be necessary to use a rag to wipe off grime to locate the markings. The rag becomes further useful as . . . a cover for the vent holes, since removing the vent caps on both batteries and covering with a cloth is a safety precaution. Not removing the caps creates the danger of an explosion. Now with the engines still turned off it is time to connect the cables themselves in the following manner:

Connect one cable to the Positive terminal of the booster battery and the other end of the same cable to the Positive terminal of the weak battery. Take the other cable and connect to the Negative terminal of the booster battery and to a ground connection of the disabled vehicle (such as the engine block). Start the engine of the booster car and then the engine of the weak car. Once the engine is started disconnect in the reverse order.

If you still have qualms about doing it, then by all means call a professional service outlet. But better yet, get your car's ignition system in shape and avoid the need of ever having to use the cables.

Temperature affects performance

If you've put off having your car serviced for cold weather, let the word ICE serve as a reminder. I, C and E are the initials for the Ignition, Cooling and Electrical systems, the three main factors affecting your car's dependability when temperatures drop.

According to Car Care Council of Canada, these are the points that should get attention:

Ignition system — You may be well advised to invest in a tune-up if you're nearing the 10,000 mile mark since the last time that work was done. This usually involves replacement of distributor points, condenser, and rotor, plus spark plugs (and sometimes wiring). The service includes adjustment of ignition timing, idle speed and automatic choke. Your mechanic also will check on the condition of the various filters and pollution control devices so essential to efficient engine operation.

Cooling system — There's more to cooling system maintenance than flushing the radiator and replacing the anti-freeze. The system should be pressure tested for potential leaks. Hoses and belts should be examined and replaced as necessary.

The thermostat, which maintains engine temperature within specified limits, should be checked, too. If it's not working properly you could have either an overheating engine or reduced engine efficiency. A faulty thermostat also can cause your car's heater to lose its effectiveness.

Electrical system — That sickening "click-click" that signifies a dead battery may be nothing more than a corroded connection creating an abnormal resistance in your starting circuit. Or it could be a problem in your car's alternator or voltage regulator.

Then again, it could be the battery itself. A battery's average life is from 26 to 36 months. To play it safe, have your car's charging circuit, battery and connections checked while you are in command of the situation.

Aks your mechanic for a safety check, too, including tires, exhaust system, lights, brakes, windshield wipers and washers, shock absorbers and steering mechanism.

Remember Washers

When putting anti-freeze into your car, don't forget the windshield washer fluid.

Some cars require extra care

Owners of low-mileage cars — those driven on the average of 5,000 miles or less annually — may belive their cars stay in "mint" condition because of the low mileage. In fact, unless the owner takes extra care of these vehicles, their "prized" possessions may be turning into prize headaches.

The low-mileage car owner may believe he should get recommended service at normally suggested mileage intervals. But, maintenance schedules are planned for automobiles driven the average of 10,000 or 12,000 miles per year.

The engine, especially, suffers as a result of short-distance driving — often, because it does not have time to warm up properly. Vital lubrication of the engine's moving parts is restricted.

It is this proper lubrication that minimizes wear within the engine. With normal usage, dust and the wear particles are carried to the drip pan by the oil.

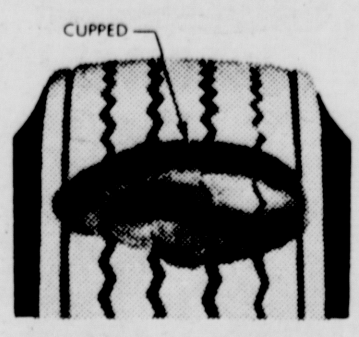
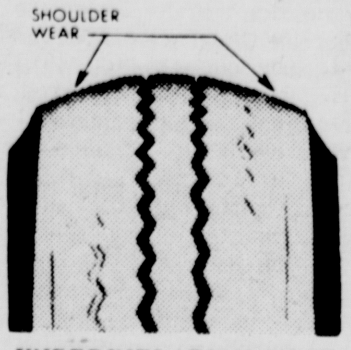
Guide to safety for tires



MULTI-PROBLEM WEAR

These cupped or slightly crater-like depressions on a tire's tread could be the result of tire unbalance, worn shock absorbers, worn ball joints or other deteriorated parts.



UNDERINFLATION WEAR

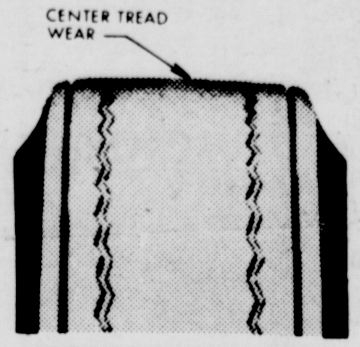
TOE-IN OR TOE-OUT WEAR

If tires start to show feathered edges, call your front-end alignment man. You can't cure the problem yourself, but he can see that the problem is cured by means of a front-end alignment job.



OVERINFLATION WEAR

This is center tread wear. It is a sure sign you're overinflating your tires by at least 5 to 10 lbs. Check the manufacturer's suggested tire pressure range and reduce those pressures.

Every detective deserving of that name knows about fingerprints. The presence of a clear set of prints can identify the culprit every time and solve the case.

Tires also have their own brand of tell-tale prints. In fact, many a tough case has been cracked by the presence of a good set of tire prints identified at the scene of the crime.

On a more prosaic level, the appearance of the tire itself can identify another kind of culprit. From examining the tire, it is possible to learn about the malfunction of some component of your car, such as bad shock absorbers or front end alignment.

See what kind of tire detective you are and try to match the damage of these tires with the cause of the damage. (Then try it on your own car.)

They know

If you're looking for proven competence of an auto mechanic, this orange and blue shoulder patch on his uniform is one sure-fire indication. The patch and the specialty emblems shown in tones are awarded to auto service personnel who can pass a thorough examination on one or more car system skills. The patches are issued by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence.

Car in Condition?

Compulsory car checks are turning up interesting facts about the cars we drive.

Headlights are out of adjustment on 38 per cent of all cars.

Forty per cent have improper tire pressure.

Twenty per cent have contaminated transmission fluid.

Forty-nine per cent have some form of ignition system breakdown.

Twenty-eight per cent have carburetor malfunctions and 35 per cent have incorrect timing.

Cooling systems need care

In the wintertime, when a car's heater is in daily use, many motorists neglect to safeguard the cooling capabilities of their air conditioners. Even though the owner has paid $250 to $400 or more for an auto air conditioning unit, he cannot take its trouble-free operation for granted.

According to automotive manufacturers, the air conditioner should be turned on and allowed to run for at least five minutes each week in cold weather, or during periods when it is not in frequent use. These workouts allow the fluids to freely circulate and flush the system, thereby reducing hose clogging. A weekly circulation of the air conditioner fluid also lubricates the seals and other fittings vital to its efficient operation.

The fluid — or refrigerant — might be termed the life blood of the air conditioning system. If circulation of the fluid is impaired or if it becomes contaminated with air or water, the air conditioner will not cool sufficiently — or it may fail completely.

Based on the average of 10,000 miles of driving per year, your car's air conditioning system should be checked and serviced once a year — or every 10,000 miles, whichever comes first. This inspection and service should include the following:

- ✔ Check cooling system coolant.
- ✔ Clean intake filters.
- ✔ Clean condenser fins.
- ✔ Test the pressure of the system.
- ✔ Check Freon supply.
- ✔ Tighten all hardware (compressor mounts, condenser mounts, and evaporator mounts)
- ✔ Inspect system for leaks (compressor, hoses, couplings and valves).

The five-minute weekly workout during cold spells or periods of infrequent use, plus the annual inspection and preventive maintenance as suggested here, are normally all that's needed to keep an air conditioning system in good working order year after year.

The cost of an annual inspection and tune-up won't break your budget — but major repairs or full replacement resulting from improper attention could.

Its value and many benefits notwithstanding, the auto air conditioner probably needs less attention than any other automotive system. But the attention it does require is important to its continued efficiency and to the owner's pocketbook.

✔ Cracks and breaks cause leaks that can't be stopped by tightening clamp. Squeeze. If cracks go to cords, replace hose.

Testing center

A Phoenix, Ariz., shoppinger center was among nine nationwide locales where emission tests were conducted last year. Technical services personnel, working with the Arizona Health Department, found that after tune-up all Phoenix cars tested could pass emission standards. In addition, there was an average 56 per cent drop in carbon monoxide and an average reduction of 40 per cent in unburned hydrocarbons after tune-ups. In Phoenix, as well as the rest of the country, it was learned that new cars are 50 per cent cleaner, emission-wise, than their pre-1968 predecessors.

Leaves, ice both hazardous

Autumn and winter driving can hold numerous hidden hazards. Wet leaves on the road surface or patches of ice on bridges or shady pavement can be far more dangerous than driving on newly fallen snow.

If you run into icy stretches or slick pavement, reduce speed but don't slam on the brakes. If you brake too hard, you're likely to lose traction and start skidding. Also, avoid any abrupt steering movements.

If your car should go into a slide, don't panic — turn the steering wheel in the direction the car is sliding and allow the car to reduce speed by taking your foot off the accelerator.

If you must use the brake, pump it gently.

If you have stopped on a slippery surface, accelerate slowly, in this situation as well. Sudden movements can cause your car to go out of control.

Drivers advice

Today's cars are more complicated than ever, but there are still some under-the-hood things you can do for yourself. Some, like checking your battery, radiator, and oil level, are things you probably already do. But you may not have realized that you can also check your own belts and hoses in a jiffy, without special tools or training.

In fact, more and more car owners are not only checking these vital parts, but are also discovering that it's not too difficult to install the replacements themselves.

These often-neglected belts and hoses can cause a lot of trouble if they're allowed to deteriorate. A loose V-belt can cause your motor to overheat, your gas consumption to rise, and your accessories to malfunction. And a burst hose can cause your engine to overheat to the point of total destruction.

Belts

Most belts look fine on the top, even when they're in terrible condition. So, when you're checking your car's V-blets, be sure you look at the sides and bottoms. Here's what to look for:

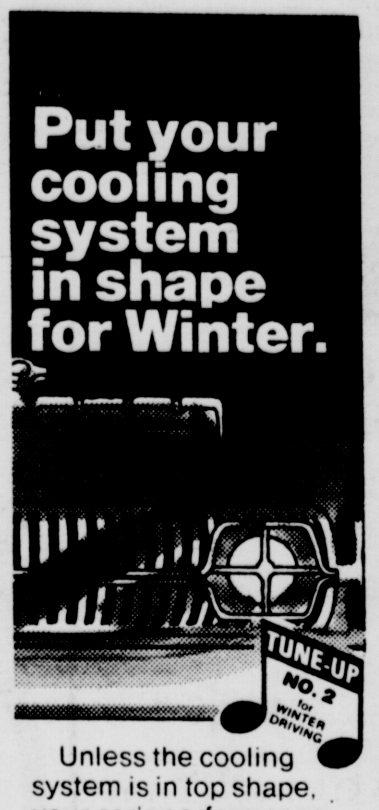
✔ Peeling — Undercore peels or frays at bottom corners so that belt runs rough — soon fails.

And while you're checking the condition of your V-belts, you should also check to be sure that they're properly tensioned. A loose and slipping belt slows fan, pump and generator — causes poor cooling, overheating, battery failure.

Check belt tension and tighten as necessary. As a rule of thumb, tension is proper when belts can be pushed down about ¼" at midpoint between pulleys.



Unless the cooling system is in top shape, your car's performance will suffer. You may experience poor fuel economy, breakdowns—even a shortened life for your car.

To prevent these problems, get Tune-Up No. 2—a complete check-up of your car's cooling system.

And if key parts need replacement, specify Gates, the top quality line of V-belts, hose, radiator caps and thermostats. They're available everywhere.

Not unusual

More than half of the 80-plus million road service calls made annually by tow trucks are for starting trouble. Hard-starting remains the No. 1 problem for motorists. Yet, according to some experts, proper engine maintenance virtually could eliminate most causes of starting problems.

Waiting for help not very pleasant

Waiting for a tow truck to help your car get started in winter is not one of life's most enchanting pasttimes. Chances are, you're late for work, an important appointment or anything preferable to waiting for the wrecker.

It's too cold to practice your putting on the front lawn and you don't dare risk a short nap for fear that the road service driver may come and go before you can spot him.

So, what do you do?

Here's a suggestion that can both help occupy your time and prove helpful in preventing future starting problems. Pay attention to the signals your car is giving you while you are attempting to start it. Analyze the sounds and the odors and try and figure out just what the problem is.

No, it's not as simple as "my battery is run down." Your battery may be run down, all right, but most likely any battery problem is caused by malfunction of some other component.

If while attempting to start the engine, you hear the starter cranking but nothing happens, suspect one or more of the following conditions. Champion Spark Plug Company suggests. (The strong odor of gasoline may be present, too.)

- ✔ Worn spark plugs.
- ✔ Cracked distributor cap.
- ✔ Worn rotor.
- ✔ Burnt, carbonized or "stuck" points.
- ✔ Worn or cracked wiring leads.
- ✔ Coil or condensor failure.

Assuming none of these factors apply, other possible causes include:

- ✔ Out of fuel.
- ✔ Carburetor flooding.
- ✔ Fuel system malfunction.
- ✔ Emission control system defects.

In cases where you do not hear any "cranking" of the engine at all, possible causes are:

- ✔ Battery run down or dead.
- ✔ Inoperative starting motor.
- ✔ Defective ignition switch.
- ✔ Stiff or seized engine.

Whatever the cause, make sure you have your favorite service outlet check your car over after a "won't start." Then, likely, you won't have the problem to stew over again.

Fighting grease could be easier

If the grease and grime created by the do-it-yourselfers at your house has you working overtime in the laundry room, the following information may help.

Go to your local automotive supply store or the parts jobber frequented by automobile mechanics, and buy some mechanics' hand cleaner.

Not the old fashioned abrasive stuff of years gone by, the kind that took the skin away with the dirt ... but the new kind of creamy product that won't hurt sensitive skin and really does an excellent cleaning job. Most can be used with or without water.

They are treated with lanolin (or similar products), and even have an antiseptic agent built into the formula to help heal the minor nicks and scratches that are part and parcel of most Saturday afternoon projects.

Most manufacturers supply dispensers to hold the hand cleaner container so that you can dispense the cleaner efficiently and economically. Their low cost permits installation of one in the garage and one in the basement workshop for real convenience.

You will also find the auto store a revelation in terms of household helps that you don't see advertised on TV.

There are bags of easy-to-use floor cleaner that eat up garage floor grease fast and save you the job of cleaning up the grime that used to be tracked into your house. There are adhesives, super lubricants, squeak stoppers, rust and stain removers, sealers, degreasers that you spray or brush on and hose off with water ... to mention just a few.

Some of these products you may find in your hardware store, but many are strictly auto supply store fare, because they are the professional materials used by professional mechanics ... but many have application in and around the house.

In a blind

A windshield splashed with winter road slush can provide a moment of terror to any motorist. For a fraction of a moment he is practically blind. It takes good wipers to clear away the obstruction as quickly as possible and restore safe visibility. Replace worn wipers before poor winter weather begins, safety experts urge.

Weight check is urged

If you will be using a trailer, camper or motor home be sure to check the weight you are putting on your tires. Surveys show about 20 per cent of all recreation vehicles are exceeding the maximum loads their tires should carry.

You can check with your tire dealer, your vehicle owner's manual or your dealer to determine maximum tire load. Then have your vehicle weighed, fully loaded, on a public scale.

A vehicle with overloaded tires will handle poorly and in case of a blowout control problems will greatly increase the chance of a serious accident.

Tune-up checklist

1. Visually check coolant level for indication of leaks or excessive oil content.
2. Check with pressure tester for internal and external leaks.
3. Visually check oil for water content.
4. Test thermostat for proper opening and closing.
5. Check heater valves.
6. Check heat gauge for accuracy.
7. Drain and back flush cooling system.
8. Clean radiator core of bugs and check for clogging.
9. Clean engine heavily covered with grease and oil.
10. Test radiator pressure cap.
11. Check radiator neck cap seat for nicks or scratches that could release pressure.
12. Check water pump bearings.
13. Check fan blades and pulley for alignment and balance.
14. Inspect all hose and clamps for deterioration.
15. Check core plugs and drain cocks for leakage.
16. Refill system with coolant and check for air-locks.
17. Recheck entire system for leaks.
18. Check and adjust tension of V-belts.
19. Check and reset ignition timing to eliminate ping.
20. In cases where cooling system continues to overheat, check other possible causes.

Getting your car ready for winter's severe temperatures and driving conditions should involve a lot more than just adding antifreeze. The American Petroleum Institute has developed a check list that may help you get ready for the cold weather ahead.

But first, let's look at anti-freeze. Today's cars are designed to use the "permanent" or ehtylene glycol type — not the older "alcohol" base variety. Although it is called permanent anti-freeze, it should be replaced at least once a year, or if your car is equipped with air conditioning, twice a year.

Change anti-freeze

Anti-freeze solutions also act as rust inhibitors and water-pump lubricants and contain additives that lose their effectiveness after a year's driving.

When changing anti-freeze, begin with a careful check of the condition of the radiator hoses, termostat, and radiator. Have your mechanic "pressure test" your cooling system. Replace worn hoses before they leak.

If all systems check out, drain and flush the radiator. Replace the coolant liquid with a 50-50 mixture of water and entylene glycol type anti-freeze. This will offer maximum protection. Do NOT use 100 per cent anti-freeze, use the 50-50 mixture — it's cheaper and more efficient.

Do not overfill the radiator; fill only one or two inches from the top — if it is too full, the overflow that occurs when the engine heats up will spill the anti-freeze onto the street.

Check the tension and condition of your fan and generator belts. These are critical to proper cooling and battery charging. Check with your service station about the multi-grade oil suitable for winter use.

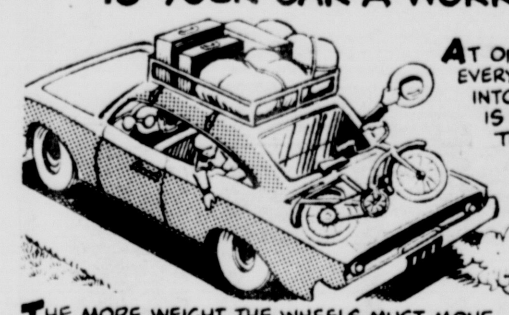
Park your car in a garage, if possible, to keep the engine from getting cold.

Drive on the "top half" of the tank. This prevents water condensation from forming in your tank which can freeze and plug your fuel lines. In other words, don't wait until the tank is almost empty to fill it up.

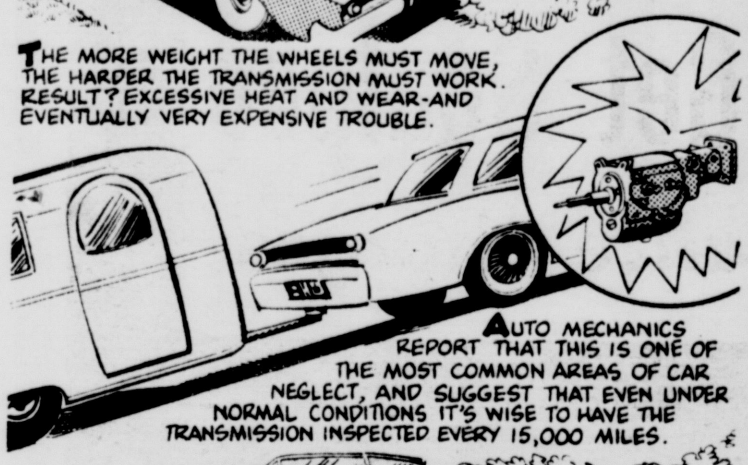
Be sure to give your car a moment or two to warm up properly, but don't let it idle for long periods of time. This can foul the spark plugs and also wastes gasoline. Remember, cars pollute more when first started.

IS YOUR CAR A WORKHORSE?

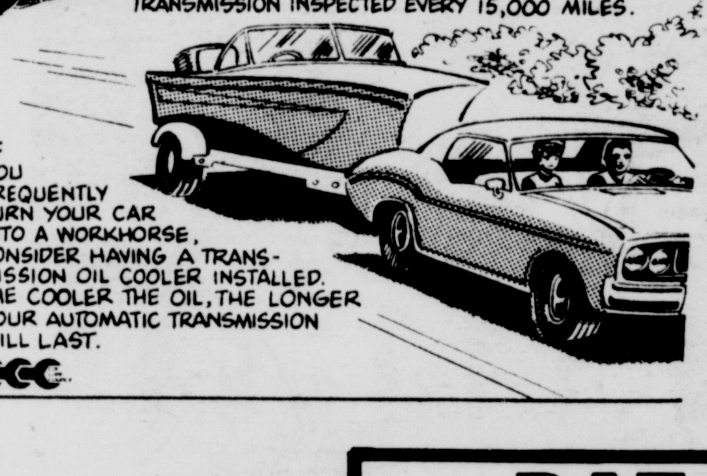


AT ONE TIME OR ANOTHER, EVERYONE TURNS HIS CAR INTO A WORKHORSE. THIS IS ESPECIALLY HARD ON THE AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION WHICH TRANSMITS THE ENGINE'S POWER TO THE WHEELS.

THE MORE WEIGHT THE WHEELS MUST MOVE, THE HARDER THE TRANSMISSION MUST WORK. RESULT? EXCESSIVE HEAT AND WEAR-AND EVENTUALLY VERY EXPENSIVE TROUBLE.



AUTO MECHANICS REPORT THAT THIS IS ONE OF THE MOST COMMON AREAS OF CAR NEGLECT, AND SUGGEST THAT EVEN UNDER NORMAL CONDITIONS IT'S WISE TO HAVE THE TRANSMISSION INSPECTED EVERY 15,000 MILES.



IF YOU FREQUENTLY TURN YOUR CAR INTO A WORKHORSE, CONSIDER HAVING A TRANSMISSION OIL COOLER INSTALLED. THE COOLER THE OIL, THE LONGER YOUR AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION WILL LAST.

More vehicles boosting need for mechanics

Five years from now there will be a need for at least 100,000 more mechanics beyond the approximately 600,000 we have now. With more than 120,000,000 cars expected on the roads in 5 years, that is a conservative estimate.

With car population growing at the rate of 3.4 million a year, there is now only one mechanic for each 170 vehicles. The ideal is one for each 80 cars.

Young people apparently do not understand the earnings and opportunities in the job. Average hourly earnings of mechanics in Detroit are now $6.13, with some making much more. $25,000 a year is not unusual.

No auto mechanic will ever be out of work, says the industry, and when "young people" are urged to get in, the ladies are not excluded.

The new tune-up

The days when tune-ups and other critical automotive services could be performed with tools that fit comfortably in the technician's back pocket are fading into history. Today, with demands of keeping emissions low and performance up to rigidly prescribed standards, the automotive service industry is utilizing space-age tools for accurate diagnosis. A chassis dynamometer under the car's wheels can simulate any condition a car is apt to encounter on the road. An electronic engine analyzer, upper left, can monitor everything that's going on under the hood — including emission of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide.

Tests were made in a Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory (CAL) Inc. simulator in Buffalo, and are being followed up by over-the-road driving in actual vehicles. Both set of tests are for the U.S. Department of Transportation.

MODEL YEAR	AVERAGE CO EMISSIONS (At Idle)	AVERAGE HC EMISSIONS (At Idle)
Pre-1968	4.7 per cent	723 PPM
1968-1969	3.8 per cent	450 PPM
1970 and newer	2.9 per cent	308 PPM

Reason for the cleaner-running car, according to Champion, is the anti-pollution systems designed and installed by the car manufacturer.

Due to these new devices, prospects for rapid improvement in the nation's air quality are excellent. According to the Motor Vehicle Manufacturer's Association, 17 out of 20 cars now on the road have some form of emission control.

Forty-three per cent have crankcase controls only, 33.3 per cent have crankcase and exhaust controls and 8.2 per cent have crankcase, exhaust and fuel evaporation controls.

As the older, non-controlled or not-fully controlled cars are scrapped, cars in operation will be emitting at only a fraction of present-day levels.

In the Phoenix tests, there was an average reduction of 50 per cent in CO and 40 per cent in HC at idle after tune-up.

A woman who drives

Not all women who drive confine their trips to shopping expeditions or journeys to the office. Lucette Saube is one of a growing number of women who earn their living behind the wheel of a car, bus or truck. Mrs. Saube transports children from the Princess Elizabeth school in Windsor, Ontario.

Many women on roads

Studies show they are becoming nearly half the total population of licensed drivers — a direct result of the ever-increasing number of women joining the work force and requiring transportation to and from their employment.

Upkeep of steering is easy

If your car has power steering, you may be under the impression that this device is extremely complex, and can be serviced only by a highly trained specialist using special tools.

Actually, this is not the case. A power steering system is considerably more complicated than a non-power system. But most power steering maintenance work can be done by the average automotive service technician.

At the heart of your car's power steering system is the hydraulic pump that supplies the pressure to turn your car's wheels when you turn the steering wheel. This pump rarely breaks down, however, provided you make sure its supply of hydraulic fluid does not get too low.

So the most important thing to do to keep your car's power steering system out of trouble is to have the fluid level checked periodically. And when you have the fluid checked, you should also have the serviceman check the hoses that connect the pump to the other elements in the power steering system. Because leakage here is the main cause of fluid loss, which in turn is the main cause of power steering troubles.

One other item that should be checked periodically is the belt that connects the hydraulic pump to your car's engine. If this belt breaks, your whole power steering system will conk out instantly.

How can you tell if your power steering system needs attention? Usually, the first sign is either an unusual noise (squealing, chattering, or knocking sound) or a change in the "feel" of your steering (sluggishness, jerkiness, or a tendency to pull to one side).

If any of these symptoms occur, you should waste no time in getting your system checked; early attention can prevent big problems later. Better still, you should have your fluid, hoses and pump-drive belt checked every month or two even if you don't notice any signs of trouble. The best time to stop trouble is before it starts.

With new car sales hovering around all-time record volumes this year, the pundits and prophets have offered a wide variety of reasons for the boom. Among the reasons most often cited was this: Cars in the near future may be higher in price due to emissions and safety systems mandated by the government.

Still it seems that many 1973 and 1974-model car buyers want to take advantage of lowest possible prices not and presumably want to keep these cars as long as they can. Certainly, new cars will continue to be attractive buys for millions of motorists annually. The thrill of new car ownership is a never-ending one.

History of neglect

While the theory is sound, the motoring public will have to do a lot better job than they have been doing if they want their new cars to last. For the lamentable history of car neglect that has been so evident in this country has always meant that vehicles are ready for the scrap heap well before their time.

There are more motor vehicles junked in this nation every year than there are vehicles registered in all of South America. Only five nations in the world have more cars than the number of cars relegated to scrap heaps here each year.

If you want to get your car that extra couple of years, you must pay more attention to car care.

For example, the nationally-syndicated columnist Sylvia Porter recently noted, "Tune-ups pay for themselves in savings on fuel consumption and engine wear. And as gas prices climb, a tune-up will more than pay for itself."

✔ Balancing and rotating tires and aligning wheels add 25 per cent or more to the life of a set of tires.

This does not even take into consideration the servicing of safety components that help prevent accidents. Certainly keeping brakes, lights, tires, windshield wipers in good operating condition are keys to safe driving. Maintaining the cooling system is another must for trouble-free driving.

Also, many cars are premature junkyard candidates because of body neglect. So, keeping a car clean, free of rust spots and dents can add years and value to your car.

Winter especially hard

In this fall and winter season approaching, the elements are particularly hard on a car. In colder climates, the ignition and cooling systems especially take a severe beating.

So, to make sure your car gets through the season in good shape and to add those extra years of life to your vehicle, bring it in to your favorite service outlet for a thorough check-up and for necessary services.

RVI has hints for storage

While winter-time offers lots of attractions to recreation vehicle owners, many enthusiasts prefer to put their units away for a well-earned seasonal rest. When storing recreation vehicles during cold weather months, the following procedures should be observed.

Winter precautions recommended by the Recreational Vehicle Institute (RVI) include draining all water from the vehicle's water supply tanks and from sink and shower traps. Use compressed air, if available, to blow the last vestiges of moisture from all pipes and adding about a cupful of anti-freeze to each sink and shower drain to prevent freezing of any moisture remaining in the traps.

Units equipped with handpumps should have these pumps removed for winter storage where they will not freeze up. Sewage holding tanks must be properly emptied and drained, and anti-freeze added, even if the unit is to receive continued cold-weather use.

But protecting your RV against freeze-up is only part of your winter storage program. RVI recommends the following additional steps:

1. Jack up trailer or motor home, if it is not going to see winter use, and put it on good, sturdy wooden blocks.

2. Remove all batteries and store in a warm place. Charge should be applied to stored batteries at least twice during the winter months to prevent formation of sulphuric acid crystals on the lead plates and consequent shorting. Tops of batteries should be thoroughly clean and dry before storing.

3. Windows and vents should be tightly closed; however, crack one window open on the sheltered side of your RV to allow some air to enter.

4. Block up refrigerator, water heater, and heater vents, and all outside drains.

5. Cover all upholstery with old sheets or newspapers to prevent fading. Remove and store curtains and drapes. Some manufactured fabrics tend to dry out or crack under very cold conditions — it is wise to remove seats and cushions covered with such materials.

6. Thoroughly clean the entire vehicle and apply a coat of good, protective wax. Apply grease to all exposed chrome trim, including the backs of rear-view mirrors, hubcaps, radio antenna, etc.

7. Motorized RVs should be protected with antifreeze in radiator and with thinner win ter oil in the engine. During the winter, start and run engine once a week or oftener, and remove battery after each such test.

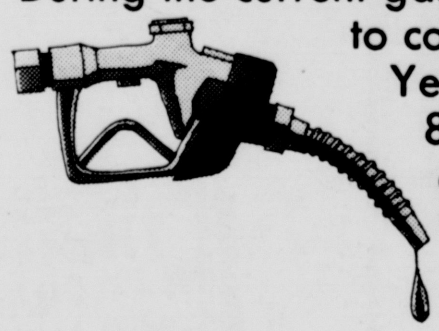
8. Remove snow accumulations from the exterior of the unit as often as possible.

9. Remove all canned and bottled foods and drinks from inside your RV, also packaged foods such as flour, sugar, mixes, etc.

Three timely reasons why your car should be tuned regularly.

To save gasoline.

During the current gasoline shortage, it's important for us all to conserve the amount of gas we use. Yet tests have shown an untuned car uses 8.2% more gasoline than a tuned car on the average. And that's more than a gallon in every tankful.



To save our environment.

In recent tests and talk about auto emissions, it's become clear that the pollution controls on our late-model cars are working. And it's been made just as clear that the pollution devices must be maintained and the cars tuned regularly. To keep harmful emissions down.

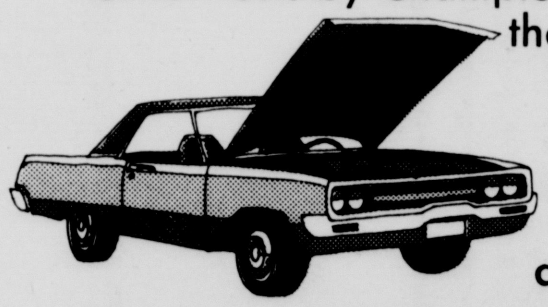
Other tests by Champion Spark Plug Company have shown that an untuned car is especially troublesome during winter. Cars needing tune-ups had twice as many "won't starts" as tuned cars. And the untuned cars took an average of 15% longer to start.



More gasoline. Cleaner air. Trouble-free driving. They all can be yours if you take your car in for a tune-up. Once each year or every 10,000 miles. With the spark plug brand 22 million people have switched to. Champion.

FOR GEORGE PEPPARD, TV's "Banacek"

I hear you're through with women after becoming a two-time loser at marriage. True?—John Welton, St. Louis, Mo.

● No. I pay alimony to two former wives. Being a wife is the only job you can get for five years and then retire at the salary of a federal court justice. Mine is a high-stress business and I've yet to find a woman who doesn't start soaking up some of the tension. I am looking for a woman who is physically attractive, but that doesn't mean beautiful. Someone who likes men, as opposed to needing, wanting, hating, loving them. Not having a constant and warm relationship with a woman is like complaining about the rain. There doesn't seem to be much you can do about it.

FOR HUGHES RUDD, TV newsman

You were quoted as saying that you don't consider Barbara Walters of the "Today" show to be a newswoman. Isn't this just a cheap attempt to boost your new CBS morning show that is bucking "Today"?—D. Reynolds, Atlantic City, N.J.

● What I really said was that I don't look on Barbara as a reporter. I consider her to be a performer and she is very good at that. There is no way I can consider her a reporter when she has no background in that area, as Sally Quinn and I do.

FOR PETULA CLARK

You have sung all over the world, and for a lot of famous people. Who impressed you the most?—Lisa Morgan, Los Angeles, Calif.

● I'm not saying this because I was born in England, but it was the British royal family who impressed me more than any other people I've ever met.

FOR TERRY ANNE MEEUWSEN, 1973 Miss America

Was there any aspect of the Miss America Pageant that you didn't like?—R. Grant, San Antonio, Texas

● Yes there was, and I feel very gratified that this year they accepted my suggestion and left the girls' measurements out of the judges' books. First of all, they never check to see if someone has told the truth or doctored the facts. Secondly, that information isn't necessary.

FOR JOE NAMATH

Why take the chance of being crippled in a game when you could sit back and get money from insurance because of your injury?—Gary Carnary, Chino, Calif.

● There are really three reasons: (1) I enjoy playing football. (2) I don't believe you can live your life around the possibility that something bad might happen. If you did that you'd never leave your house in the morning. And (3) the money I'd receive from my insurance wouldn't leave me enough to buy a ticket to see a Jet game.

FOR LARRY CSONKA, Miami Dolphins star

What are your feelings about Astroturf?— John Brady, Durham, N.C.

● It can finish every player in the league years before his time. Let the engineers play on it. I hear there's a guy off somewhere working on a different weather-resistant surface. It's called grass. God bless him.

FOR LEE TREVINO, pro golfer

Have you found any change in your mental approach to golf since you reached the million-dollar winnings mark last May?—Frank Johnson, Sacramento, Calif.

● Yes. When you reach the first million, something happens. I still love playing the game, but there has been something lacking in the mental approach. That will change in January, I promise.

FOR JULIA CHILD, TV's French Chef

Did being a tall girl ever bother you when you were growing up?—Mrs. I. Walton Bader, Scarsdale, N.Y.

● Yes, when I was about 15 and all the boys seemed two feet shorter than me. Now I find it a great advantage because people in stores and restaurants remember that big tall girl. But clothes are expensive and hard to find!

FOR TAYLOR CALDWELL, author

What is your real first name? By using a masculine first name, are you saying it's easier to be born a man?—B. S., Lancaster, Pa.

● I was christened Janet Taylor Caldwell. When I started writing, I was told that editors would give more attention to a man's work than a woman's. And so I dropped the "Janet." No, I am not saying it's easier to be born a man. No one has it better than the American wife, and that is why so few of them want any part of that inane Women's Lib.

FOR DICK HAYMES

In 1961, after six marriages and a war with the bottle that nearly wrecked you and did ruin your career, you went to Europe. What happened to make you decide to come back to your career and America?—L. F., Watsonville, Calif.

● I never gave up my career . . . I continued to sing in Europe. But I spent most of my time examining what had become of my life. The pressure arising out of knowing what I'd done to myself, to my career and to others was agonizing. So I quit drinking. Completely. And I started planning to come home one day. In 1971, out of the blue, I got a call in Spain asking me to come back to the U.S., to be on a Tennessee Ernie special. I walked back into a top show and have been so busy ever since that I still haven't gone back to collect my stuff in Europe.

Dr. Joyce Brothers Explains How the Spotlight of the Hearings Changes Senators and Witnesses Alike

Wide World

Senator Ervin | Senator Baker | Senator Weicker

"Once the hearings are over, the senators' personalities will be a compromise between the new and the old."

UPI

H. R. Haldeman | John Dean | John Ehrlichman

"Even though the witnesses are in conflict, I think they tend to be believed as long as they are in front of the public."

"Changes in their public personalities don't take place without any awareness on the senators' part. . . . However, the fact that they are aware doesn't mean they have calculatedly adopted these changes or 'Watergate personalities.'. . . I want to emphasize that it isn't a conscious and intentional 'slipping into a role' or 'show biz.' "

By Dr. Joyce Brothers

No issue in years has caused as much all-consuming interest as Watergate. One of the main reasons for this has been the televised Senate committee hearings.

For me as a psychologist, one of the most fascinating aspects of the hearings is the behavior of the individual senators on the committee and how they have changed their images since they've been thrust into the limelight.

The Watergate senators are political and congressional veterans, so serving on committees is hardly a new experience for them. But the Watergate Committee is like no other. There hasn't been a congressional investigation of this magnitude since the McCarthy hearings in the early '50's and, like those hearings, the all-seeing eye of television has placed the senators into a fishbowl type of existence. These seven men have never had their work as closely scrutinized as they have during the Watergate proceedings. Of course, they're quite aware of this, and each member projects—intentionally or not—a particular image to his audience.

It is quite natural for us to behave differently when we know our work is being examined more closely than usual. We try to improve our performance because we are aware of someone figuratively looking over our shoulder.

What actually happens to the individual isn't much different from what happens on the stage. A big audience puts a spotlight on one's behavior. And the very act of observation on the part of so many other people changes our behavior. These changes in their public personalities don't take place without any awareness on the senators' part. At first they probably were not conscious of it, but by now, I am sure they are very conscious of it because these are astute men who read the papers and understand what the papers are saying about them. However, the fact that they are aware doesn't mean they have calculatedly adopted these changes, or "Watergate personalities." It just means they know what's going on, so to speak. But again, I want to emphasize that it isn't a conscious and intentional "slipping into a role" or "show biz." What happens is that there is a continuous feedback. An actor on the stage moves unconsciously in the direction of the audience, as a result of felt waves of approval or disapproval. Very much the same thing happens to public men in a situation like this.

The truth is, it isn't even very likely that the senators will slip back to being their former selves once the Watergate hearings are over. Each man by now has acquired a persona based on the hearings. And he has a vested interest in it. You know, the whole idea of role-playing in psychodrama is to obtain a change in behavior. People do change when they are "playing roles"—whether it's a role like the one of being assigned to find out the truth about Watergate, or a role in a play, or a role that is assigned by a psychotherapist in an attempt to change someone's behavior. What probably will happen to the senators is that, once the hearings are over, their personalities will be a compromise between the new and the old. In other words, they probably will incorporate some of their "Watergate personalities" into their private and public selves.

You'll notice that some of the senators have even gone on television shows—four of them (Sens. Howard Baker, Daniel Inouye, Herman Talmadge and Lowell Weicker) appeared on the "Dick Cavett Show."

there is a tendency to believe each man as he comes out to have his day in the spotlight. Even though the witnesses are in conflict, I think they tend to be believed as long as they are in front of the public. But later on, a Gallup Poll showed not only that the investigating senators all had favorable images (from Senator Inouye's 84 percent approval to 69 percent for Senators Weicker and Gurney), but that the witnesses all had unfavorable images (from 67 percent disapproval for John Mitchell and John Ehrlichman to 62 percent for H. R. Haldeman and 60 percent for John Dean).

We all pay lip service to the idea that everyone is innocent until proved guilty. But we don't really behave that way. When a man is on the witness stand, the very fact that he is being questioned about something that appears shady will color and taint the way we look at him. Only if we are really participating in an important judgment about a person, as when we're members of a jury trying to make an important decision about him, do we try to be fair. At least, that's what studies have indicated. One study showed that a member of a jury will tend to set aside his prejudices during a trial—but he can only set aside the prejudices that he knows about. Other prejudices creep in—the ones he has, but doesn't recognize. Nevertheless, the very fact that the witnesses appear to be "accused men" results in a negative reaction from the public.

Among the witnesses there is some role-playing, too. Once a man begins to act innocent, he begins to feel innocent. So I'm sure every one of those men feels most earnestly that he is completely innocent of any wrongdoing, and probably feels it more strongly after going on the witness stand than he did before. One theory is that if a person assumes the posture of an emotion, he begins to feel that emotion. Thus, if a man assumes the posture of grief, if an actor assumes the posture of grief, he very soon begins to feel that emotion. Right now, every one of the witnesses must feel very unjustly accused. I want to emphasize that this isn't "show business." It isn't a conscious "act." It just comes out, and in a sense it is role-playing. But it isn't something the witness sets out to do, and it isn't something the senators set out to do. They don't plan to slip into roles. It just happens as a logical extension of what they are doing, and the fact that they are doing it in front of so many people. Some people call what happens here "hamming it up." But actually, the meaning of what happens goes deeper than that.

Ironically, President Nixon has undergone changes of a very similar kind. The man who gains the American Presidency not only experiences a new role, but an enormous increase in stress, partly resulting from the immense changeover involved in becoming President. There is an enormous difference between the Nixon who made the "Checkers" speech and the present-day Nixon. One study about how life-changes affect us shows that pressures not only change us, but also they change us physically. Even positive changes have an effect of stress and strain on the body. For example, a man may become less resistant to disease after a great change like the one a President

Pictorial Parade

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Last April Susan Saint James was voted most popular TV actress by FAMILY WEEKLY readers. Rock Hudson's husky-voiced leading lady in "McMillan & Wife" is a refreshingly different TV personality. That she's different away from the TV screen as well was evident when I met her for lunch at the Brotherhood of the Source restaurant, run by a "family" who believe in the awakening of spiritual wisdom in the Western world, which includes serving only raw, natural foods. Susan showed up in a long loose blue skirt and pink sweater, canvas shoes, no makeup, a bag slung from one shoulder, and her 11-month-old baby daughter —wearing tiny gold earrings in each pierced ear—riding on one hip.

FAMILY WEEKLY: What is your baby's name?

SUSAN: Sunshine.

FW: Why Sunshine?

SUSAN: Because she looks like it.

SUSAN: No. It's Miller. Actually, it isn't Miller either. It's now Mrs. Tom Lucas. But Susan Miller was my maiden name.

FW: What made you change it ?

SUSAN: It was part of a dream I always had—becoming a glamorous actress. I thought changing one's name was part of the game.

FW: How did your parents feel about it?

SUSAN: I was living in Paris at the time, and they sent me a telegram saying "Saint James sounds great."

FW: Why did you live in Paris?

SUSAN: My father believed that straight white teeth and an ability to speak French were the prerequisites to the success of any young lady. I wore braces for a year and a half, and I was sent to Paris when I was 15, during my last year in high school.

FW: How long did you stay?

SUSAN: A year. I came home when I was 16 and enrolled at the Connecticut College for Women. But I stayed only a few months. I couldn't endure all those females any longer.

FW: Then what?

SUSAN: I went to New York and got a job as a model. But after a year I got bored with New York and went back to Paris to model there. I soon realized modeling could be deadly and that I really wanted to become an actress.

FW: I read somewhere that Charles Aznavour was instrumental in getting you into show business. Is that true?

SUSAN: In a way. I had a crush on him, and I applied for a job as a curtain puller at the Olympia Theatre in Paris while he appeared there. I didn't really work, but they were so sweet. They put a stool in the wings so I could watch from there. He agreed I should become an actress, and when he came on tour to this country, I acted as his interpreter. When the tour hit Hollywood, I decided to stay.

FW: Why did you choose to meet me at this particular restaurant?

SUSAN: It's the closest to my philosophy of life—and it is nutritional. All the food here is raw, except the soup, melted cheese and rice. The family that runs this place doesn't even drink coffee, but I still do because it is so great here.

"There are people who hate, who like war, who think prisons are fine. That if someone commits a crime he should be there. Like if someone kills my daughter, I should be the one to pull the hanging rope. No way!"

FW: When did you get started on this?

SUSAN: About three or four years ago, when I met Tom [her husband, makeup man Tom Lucas] in Albuquerque on location. I was always weight conscious so we fixed salads all the time. We gradually eliminated all meat, then chicken, then fish. I even changed my wardrobe.

FW: In what way?

SUSAN: I used to wear a lot of leather jackets to go with my jeans. I sold all of them. That's the nicest part of the philosophy. Saving animals. Don't kill them to get leather or fur to wear. Or to eat.

FW: Do you believe in a strictly nonviolent way of life in all circumstances?

SUSAN: Absolutely. There are people who hate, who like war, who think that prisons are fine. That if someone commits a crime he should be there. Like if someone kills my daughter, I should be the one to pull the hanging rope. No way! That sort of thing. I vote for life. And for nonviolence. I am not for death.

FW: You said you don't wear anything made out of leather. What about your shoes and your purses on the television series?

SUSAN: I only came to this conclusion just about the time we went on layoff. I will try very hard to carry my philosophy into the series as well. I don't carry purses in the show anyway because they always look empty. As for shoes, women used to wear silk shoes, and they have nice canvas shoes now. My husband used to have beautiful leather boots. Now he's having them made out of canvas. We haven't seen them yet, but I may have some made too.

FW: Is your husband involved in your career?

SUSAN: Very! Tom and I always decide everything we do as a unit.

FW: Where do you live now?

SUSAN: In a house that belongs to a friend. It's a big house and has a separate place with a tiny little room that Tom and I used until we expected Sunshine. Then our friend moved into the little room and we moved into the big house. We painted and wallpapered it .

FW: Do you own the house?

SUSAN: No. I don't believe in owning things. We eliminated that as much as we could. We gave away most of our clothes, and we even gave away our furniture. We have pillows on the floor and a low table so we can sit down with the baby on the same level when we eat, like humans.

FW: Do you sleep on the floor as well?

SUSAN: We sleep in a normal bed, and the baby sleeps with us. It is much easier, because I breast-feed her.

FW: Isn't that a problem when you work all day?

SUSAN: Not at all. I take her to the studio with me.

SUSAN: Go camping, live in tents. The ultimate thing must be back-packing, which is what we intend to do when Sunshine is a little older. Just live off the wilderness.

FW: You gave away most of your possessions, you live simply—what do you do with all the money you make?

SUSAN: I make more money than a lot of other girls, but not that much more because I am under exclusive contract, and I haven't been under contract that long that the money is so extravagant. Someday in the future we'd like to buy a farm in Northern California and build our own place. Develop the land and live off it.

FW: What do you think about the quality of your voice?

SUSAN: I think it is an asset. People notice it. Today I forget about it. But as a kid I was always teased because it was so low. Other kids would say, "What's the matter? Got a cold?" In school plays I always played boys' parts, like the sailors in Gilbert and Sullivan.

FW: Were you spoiled as a child?

SUSAN: Yes, a little bit. I got things I didn't need. Like a car before I was old enough to drive—a '54 MG that I sold to my brother for one dollar.

FW: Because your father was an executive in a toy company, did you have all the toys you wanted?

SUSAN: It was fine for my brothers because he made mostly toys for mature boys. I would have to trade them off for dolls. I always thought I got the short end of the stick.

FW: How did going to a girls' school influence your life?

SUSAN: The boys would say, "She's a great girl, she's been to Catholic school!" They felt because I was so much more protected, I might go overboard the other way. All along I kept searching for answers in school. I wondered why a woman would become a nun instead of getting married and having children, which is natural.

FW: What goals do you have today?

SUSAN: I concentrate on relaxing. Yet I want to be totally involved in some things, not stand by as an observer. If that sounds like a contradiction, I guess it is. I want the good things out of life, the simple things. But my mind is always working, always thinking. I would like my mind to be more peaceful.

undergoes when he takes that office, with its constant spotlight and enormous pressures. Another thing that happens under stress is that a man's aging is accelerated. That's one of the things you see in Nixon.

The witnesses have some disadvantages that go beyond the fact that they are obviously sitting "at the wrong table." If I could show you a graph of how tension affects people, you would see that there's a point of tension where you function better than you normally would. The senators, in all likelihood, are on the up-slope of the graph. They are at the point where they function best, spurred on by the tension that exists in the situation. The witnesses, probably, have gone beyond that point, over the peak, and to the downslope of the graph. At a certain degree of tension, our ability to function at our best becomes adversely affected, and the witnesses have gone beyond that point, hence their effectiveness is probably impaired by excessive tension.

The presence of seven men on such a panel has the crucial effect of making judgment much fairer than any one man's judgment could ever be. A ten-year study of judges and jury verdicts found that judges would have come to the same conclusions the juries came to except in 10 to 12 percent of the cases. But in most cases where he differed from the jury, the judge said that the jury came to a fairer decision. The jury was able to take into consideration extenuating circumstances, their own instincts for kindness—or even severity. The judges themselves, however, are not allowed to take any of these things into consideration. A judge must "follow the letter of the law." Thus, it seems to be true that a large number of people sitting in judgment tend to be fairer than a single person.

FULL SIZE CAR?
SMALL SIZE CAR?

HERE'S TIMELY HELP FROM A COMPANY THAT MAKES ALL THREE.

We listen.

And we know that these days there's a lot of concern about a fuel shortage and an energy crisis. About inflation and rising costs.

If you're in the market for a new car, these things might even influence what size car you buy.

But before you make up your mind, you really ought to think about how you're going to use your new car.

For instance, the family of six trying to get by with a small size car may soon find out that a full size or mid-size car isn't an extravagance—it's a necessity. On the other hand, it might be just right for them as a second car or a personal car.

To help you choose the right car for your needs, Ford Motor Company will send you a free book.

It's the 1974 edition of "Car Buying Made Easier." And it tells you the pros and cons for the different size cars.

Part I is about cars in general—types, styles, engines, options, etc.—advantages and disadvantages. This information can help you regardless of which make of car you buy.

MARGARET COURT: Tennis Is Second to Danny

Margaret Smith Court is living proof that motherhood is no bar to tennis success. The 30-year-old Australian, who has won the U.S. tennis championship at Forest Hills five times and the Grand Slam of world championships in 1970, retired late in 1971 to have a baby, and said she would not play in tournaments again. But her husband, yachtsman Barry Court, convinced her to make a comeback, and she won the Virginia Slims tournament and the Australian Open, while also taking the lead as this year's No. 1 money-winner in the Grand Prix women's tennis circuit. Margaret has such a powerful service and forehand drive that opponents complain that "she plays like a man." . . . The Courts travel with their infant son, Danny, and Margaret is usually seen with tennis racquets in one hand and a pacifier in the other. Tennis buffs say she has become prettier and slimmer since becoming a mother. . . . The statuesque Australian is a native of New South Wales and grew up in Victoria. She won her first title 13 years ago, then went on to win a series of championship tournaments. In 1966, however, she retired abruptly to run a dress shop in western Australia. After meeting and marrying Barry, she decided to un-retire because he was willing to travel with her. . . . The rise of young female tennis stars like Chris Evert and Evonne Goolagong is a source of joy to Margaret. "I think it's terrific for women's tennis and I hope there'll be more youngsters coming up. They've given our sport a boost," she says. She's not ready to concede any titles to the younger set, however—she expects to remain at or near the top for at least another two years.

Do you feel the urge to emerge?

There's no denying that the world is a moral mess. Once again, man is finding out that he can't achieve justice and peace unless he works in partnership with God.

This requires first of all belief in God and, indeed, in a God who cares about what happens to man. This kind of belief demands a religious life of worship and service. Man can't work this out for himself. But God is constantly offering His help. Faith and its supporting graces are there for the taking. Yet, from all appearances, the world has few takers.

Where do you fit into this picture? Do you take religion seriously? Do you work at it? Or do you take a "leave it to the clergy" attitude? The time to come out of your shell is now. That urge to emerge and do something to bring men back to God is God's own call to you. "Why are you standing idle? Go into my vineyard." It's not just a message for the clergy but for all.

To help you think about your God-given "urge to emerge," we are offering a free pamphlet, "The Lay Apostolate." Write for a copy today. No one will call.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

How Much Do You Know About ESP?

True or False: A person's ESP ability is related to his IQ. (See number 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Some people can send and receive ESP messages from virtually any place in the world.

2. It's difficult to tell if a person is likely to be good at ESP.

3. Telepathy, intuition, and other products of our sixth sense can be invaluable in everyday life.

4. A person's ESP ability is related to his IQ.

5. It would be wonderful if your ESP faculty was developed to the point where you could sense others' thoughts and "read people like an open book."

ANSWERS

1. True. Results of tests in bridging great distances with ESP have shown that in some instances the ESP scores of subjects "declined significantly as the distances increased." In other cases, however, distance was found to have no effect on ESP. It has been suggested that the mood and personality of the individual may have more effect than the number of oceans and continents the telepathic thought waves must cross. The question has also been raised of "whether ESP goes around the earth or directly through it." There is evidence to indicate that the path of travel is around the earth.

2. False. A team of researchers compared the scores of subjects on ESP tests with the results of a standard personality inventory. Their findings provide a personality profile of the person who may be expected to be good at ESP. "He is warm and sociable rather than aloof and stiff; good-natured and easygoing rather than critical and suspicious. At the same time, he is assertive and self-assured rather than submissive and dependent." He is also described as tough-minded, enthusiastic, talkative, alert, adventurous, impulsive, emotional and carefree.

3. True – but they should be carefully screened and evaluated before we act on them. Studies show that our intuitive promptings can be just as subject to misinterpretation as the conclusions we arrive at through ordinary garden-variety thinking. And nothing is easier for many of us than to let our intuition become confused by wishful thinking.

4. True—according to the findings of studies evaluated by Dr. H. J. Butcher, professor of higher education at the University of Manchester. The findings suggest "that intelligence is relevant—not, as one might suppose, that more effective extrasensory perception is dependent on superior intelligence, but that high intelligence may depend on ESP!"

5. False. It takes little imagination to appreciate what would happen if everyone could read everyone else's thoughts. It's been truly observed that "with total telepathy, life would be chaotic – and every exchange, however fleeting, could well prove fatal." For example, a great many family gatherings would likely end in free-for-alls. And if your boss knew some of the thoughts you'd had about him at times, how long do you think you'd be on the payroll? But since evidence indicates little likelihood of total telepathy occurring, the development of all our abilities—including the faculties of our sixth sense—would seem eminently desirable.

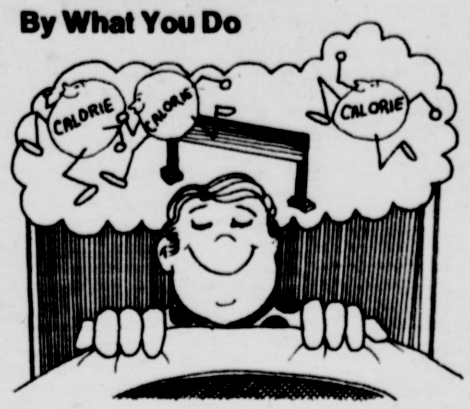
The Diet Watch

Count Your Calories By What You Do



Do you know how many calories you use up by sleeping? About half a calorie per pound of your body weight each hour. So if you weigh 100 pounds and sleep eight hours you lose 400 calories—or about one chocolate sundae! Knowing how you use up calories in daytime activities is also a helpful guide in learning to eat less and/or exercise more. The U.S. Department of Agriculture breaks down our physical activity into five categories: Sedentary activities (reading, eating, watching TV, playing cards, typing—things that require little arm movement), in which you lose 80 to 100 calories an hour. Light activities (cooking, ironing, walking slowly, miscellaneous office work and activities done while standing), when you lose 110 to 160 calories. Moderate activities (making beds, machine laundering, walking moderately fast—things that require some arm movement while you're standing and vigorous arm movement while you're sitting), that will let you lose 170 to 240 calories. Vigorous activities (changing beds, walking fast, bowling, golfing, gardening), when 250 to 350 calories are lost. Strenuous activities (swimming, dancing, bicycling, playing tennis, skiing), in which 350 and more calories melt away.

Jobmanship

How to Deal with Phonies and Shirkers

One of the most exasperating co-workers is the person who manages to win credit for work he didn't do. Your natural reaction may be to have it out with him or to march in and set the boss straight. Since neither way is apt to lead to the results you want, you'll have to use subtler methods. Dr. John Butler, a leading industrial psychologist, suggests you and any others involved send the boss a brief note about the job the phony hero has claimed for his own. In the note, just outline the contributions of each member of your work group. Give the simple facts, not accusations. After the note you can have a straightforward discussion with the boss to straighten out the record without tearing down any individuals—including the phony hero. Your conversation is simply to give the credit where it's deserved. If the problem is the reverse, where one member of your work team doesn't carry his load, Dr. Butler says it's often useful to try to understand why your co-worker is failing to do his share. Does he know what is expected of him? Maybe that's the problem. Does he have an assignment he is capable of handling? A well-respected co-worker could discuss the problem with the low-producer and ask him what he feels he can do about carrying his share. Setting up the low-producer with a "buddy" who would work closely with him and teach him how to reach the desired level of production can also be useful.

I gave up smoking and lost 68 pounds.

By Carlene Paulk — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

The day I took my last puff, it seemed like I blew away my will power. Because once the smoke cleared, that scale began to go up and up until I reached 196 pounds.

At first, you see, I was like everyone else who gives up cigarettes. When I stopped reaching for one, I started eating everything in sight. Why, my mouth was full all of the time.

I'll tell you, my appetite nearly ruined my life. And the whole congregation of King's Baptist Church in Vero Beach, Florida knows it. Why, more than once the pastor prayed with me — not about my fat, but my marriage.

As I gained, Billy (my husband) began calling me "Famous Hips." For good reason, too. I was 56 inches around, so I really earned the nickname. But how it hurt when I heard it. Yet instead of controlling what I ate, I kept loading up with more food and caring less. Even my son was ashamed to have me at school.

Still, I couldn't get hold of myself. I guess it was because I knew my husband was losing interest in me. If an invitation came for us, he'd refuse it, saying that he was getting too old to go out anymore. And imagine, he was only in his thirties!

Finally, we withdrew from one another, until all that was left of our marriage was the love we had for our children.

Understand, though I hated to hear about my problem, deep down it was gnawing at me. That's why I tried so many diets and pills. But they made me nervous, so I gave them up. When I did, my appetite doubled. I sometimes thought about going back to smoking, but I'd promised myself not to, so didn't.

Thank goodness, I'd been reading the stories of people who'd lost weight with the help of the Ayds plan. So I bought some vanilla caramel Ayds® at our local drug store. The label on the box said that Ayds contain vitamins and minerals, but no drugs. And they certainly proved right for me, because I experienced no nervousness, no side effects, no sickness at all on the Ayds plan.

For breakfast, I'd have two Ayds with hot coffee about 20 minutes before a hard boiled egg. At lunch, two more Ayds with black coffee, a salad, lean meat and a vegetable. Then a mid-afternoon snack of Ayds and tea. And at supper, two Ayds and coffee, before baked or broiled meat or fish, a vegetable and a salad. Those Ayds really helped me cut down on food, yet I was completely satisfied.

By the second week, I'd lost three or four pounds on the Ayds plan. Soon, I began to lose more — sometimes five pounds in one week. After that, nothing could get me off the Ayds plan, even when we visited Billy's family in Georgia, where I was surrounded by good cooking. That was about three months after I'd been on the Ayds plan and I was down to 160 pounds. My weight loss made such an impression on my sister-in-law, she bought a box herself. Of course, she only needed to lose about 10 pounds, but the Ayds plan worked just as well for her.

You can see why my husband used to call me "Famous Hips." At 196 pounds, I was as big as our car fender.

Look at the difference in my thighs and knees now. And that's not all being 128 pounds has done for me.

Those Ayds candies were wonderful another way, too. I could carry them around as easy as a pack of cigarettes. And since Ayds contain only 26 calories apiece, I was soon in pretty good shape. Instead of reaching for a cigarette or a fattening sweet, I'd have an Ayds.

Now, thanks to the Ayds plan, I'm down to 128 pounds and compliments are coming my my way. I don't mind saying, the whole church is proud of me. Billy and I are real close again. What's more, my husband's talked so much about my experience, I think the whole South knows of it. If they don't, I guess they will after reading this. So I'd like to add one last thing.

I'm not trying to preach to anyone, or to say the Ayds plan will help everybody in the world with a weight problem. All I know is that the Ayds plan helped me where nothing else did. And I hope and pray that this story will help someone else be as happy as I am now.

I smoke. And I'm not going to apologize for it.

Sure, I've heard it all. I'd light up at a cocktail party. And somebody would remind me of what they've read about smoking in the papers.

Well, I read the papers, too.

I've heard all that stuff they say about high 'tar' and nicotine. And I'd be less than honest if I said it didn't make me concerned.

So I went the whole route. Tried one of those low 'tar' cigarettes, and got as much flavor out of it as a toothpick.

But I kept trying. Guess I enjoyed smoking too much.

That's when I ran across Vantage. And what do you know. It tasted like a cigarette.

Now Vantage wasn't the lowest in 'tar' and nicotine. It didn't claim to be. Just the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette that still gave me the full tobacco taste I'd missed.

Maybe it's the Vantage filter. Frankly I don't know, and I don't care.

I just know I can cut down on 'tar' and nicotine. Without cutting out the flavor.

Now I don't have to make any excuses for smoking. Not since they made Vantage.

Spanking: By Dr. Fitzhugh Dodson

This Doctor Says There Is a Right Way—And a Wrong Way

"Many parents also have the impression that modern psychology teaches that you should not spank children.... However, as a psychologist, I believe it is impossible to raise children effectively—particularly aggressive, forceful boys—without spanking them."

Over the years I have discovered that many parents have major misconceptions about modern psychology.

Modern psychology does not believe it is good for parents to be permissive, if by permissive we mean letting a child do whatever he feels like doing. No sensible psychologist has ever advocated such a strange idea. But incredible as it may seem, I have actually known parents who let their children scribble on the walls of their home with crayons because they thought it would be psychologically harmful to stop them! What is really happening in most of these cases is that the parent is afraid of saying no to the child and tries to use modern psychology as a rationalization.

Many parents also have the impression that modern psychology teaches that you should not spank children. Some psychologists and psychiatrists have actually stated this idea in print. However, as a psychologist, I believe it is impossible to raise children effectively—particularly aggressive, forceful boys—without spanking them. This does not mean that any kind of spanking is all right for a child.

I want to make it clear that there is a "right" kind of spanking and a "wrong" kind. By the wrong kind I mean a cruel and sadistic beating. This fills a child with hatred, and a deep desire for revenge. This is the kind that is administered with a strap or stick or some other type of parental "weapon." Or it could also mean a humiliating slap in the face.

The right kind of spanking needs no special paraphernalia. Just the hand of the parent administered a few times on the kid's bottom. The right kind of spanking is a positive thing. It clears the air, and is vastly preferable to moralistic and guilt-inducing parental lectures.

Some of you may have heard the old saying "Never strike a child in anger." I think that that is psychologically very poor advice, and I suggest the opposite: "Never strike a child except in anger."

A child can understand very well when you strike him in anger. He knows you are mad at him and he understands why. What a child cannot understand is when he disobeys mother at 10 a.m. and she tells him, "All right, young man—your father will deal with you when he gets home!" Then when Dad arrives home he is expected to administer a spanking that will "really teach the boy a lesson." That's the kind of cold-blooded spanking a child cannot understand or forgive.

What I advocate is the "pow-wow" type of spanking: your "pow" followed by his "wow!" Spank your child only when you are furious at him and feel like letting him have it right then. Too many mothers nowadays seem to be afraid to spank their children. They talk and nag a great deal as a substitute; they try to negotiate. This is a huge mistake because it reduces their authority as parents.

What you should do is tell your child once or perhaps twice what you want him to do or to stop doing. Then, if he refuses to obey your reasonable request, and you have become frustrated and angry, let him have it right then and there!

After spanking, sometimes your first immediate reaction may be frustration and guilt. It may bother you that you've blown your cool.

Courage, Mother, all is not lost!

You can always say to your child, in your own way: "Look, Mommy goofed. I lost my temper, and I'm sorry I did." Then you can go on from there. You don't have to be "stuck" with the guilt, the frustration and the unhappy feelings.

Wait until you really feel better about the situation and about your child. It might be five minutes or five hours later. But if you feel you have blown your stack, it's important to admit it to your child. Above all, don't pretend to him that the sole reason you spanked him was for his benefit. That's as phony as a three-dollar bill, and he will know it.

If we were 100 percent perfect parents, we would all be so mature we would never need to spank our kids except in unusual or extreme situations (such as when a child runs out into the street). The point is, we are not such 100 percent perfect parents. We are not able to administer discipline calmly and serenely all the time. We get fed up when our kids misbehave and we lose our cool and swat them. But that's nothing to feel guilty about. We feel better and they feel better. The air is cleared.

If you are quite honest with yourself, you will find that there are times when you will lose your temper, fly off the handle at your child, and yell at him or spank him—only to realize afterward that what he did should not have elicited such a violent outburst from you. You were really mad at your husband or your neighbor. Or just cranky for some unknown reason. And you took it out on your child.

What can you do in such a situation? Well, you could pretend you are a holy paragon of virtue and that your child fully deserved the scolding or spanking he got. Or you can have the courage to say something like this to your child: "Danny, Mother got mad at you and scolded you. But I can see now that you didn't do anything that was really that bad. I think I was mad at something else and I was sort of taking it out on you. So I'm sorry."

Your child will feel a wonderful warm feeling toward you for admitting you are human and fallible. This will do wonders for his self-concept —and yours!

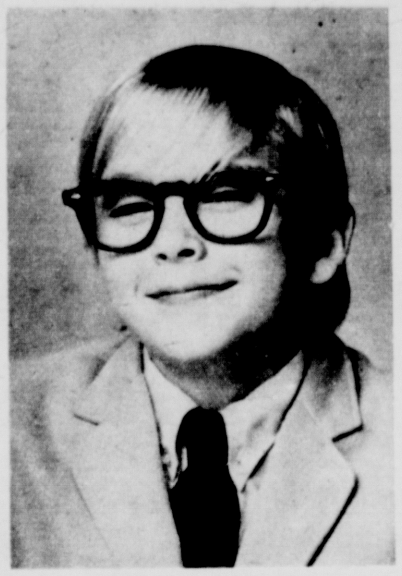
Here's real relief from constipation

If you've been taking magnesia, salts, oils or harsh chemical laxatives once a week or more and you're still not satisfied—here's a better way to end constipation worries. Take gentle, effective Serutan. It's different!

Unlike other laxatives that may cause irritation or griping, Serutan, taken daily, forms a soft gel which moistens food wastes and shapes them into a well-formed stool. Serutan produces the proper amount of bulk needed to help bring peristaltic stimulation to your sluggish colon. This is utterly different than forcing your system with harsh chemical laxatives which may dry you out. You can take gentle Serutan every day because it is a pure vegetable hydrogel and contains no harsh roughage, no chemical laxatives. Take Serutan every day to get regular—and keep regular.

Delicious Fruit Flavor

Serutan is available in delicious fruit flavor. Get Serutan fruit flavor or unflavored powder, or toasted granules. When you read Serutan backwards, it spells "natures." And nature's way is best.



This child has a good home, nice clothes, a loving mother- and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

This Exclusive Formula Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief In Many Cases from such Pain. Also Helps Shrink Swelling of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due to Infection.

News about a most effective medication comes from a recent survey of doctors. Asked what they, themselves, use to relieve such painful symptoms, many of the doctors reporting, named one particular medication they either use themselves or in their office practice.

This medication gives prompt relief for hours in many cases from pain and itching of hemorrhoidal tissues. And it actually helps shrink swelling of such tissues caused by infection. Tests by doctors showed this to be true.

The medication used was Preparation H®—the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Just see if doctor tested Preparation H doesn't help you. There's no other formula like it. Ointment or suppositories.

AT LAST! A DOCTOR WHO SAYS:

Take Food, Not Medicine, If You Suffer from Any One of These Ills!

"Why do I avoid prescribing drugs?", says this brilliant and controversial physician, who has cured literally thousands of patients with nothing more than ordinary food alone!
"For these four vital reasons"—

1. Because drugs do not produce health. They merely mask the symptoms of a disease . . . cover up the condition, while the body struggles on valiantly to cure itself.

2. This is the reason why so many men and women, of all ages, no sooner fight their way out of one ailment, than they fall right into another. Why they are always "half-sick". Why they never really know what it means to be completely free of pain, in glowing health. Because they, and their doctors, do nothing more than merely fight off each new attack, and never drain out the poison that is left from that attack, or rebuild the vital weakened tissue before it can fall prey to a new disease!

It Is "Tissue Weakness" That Opens The Door To One New Disease After Another! And NO Drug—Only Food—Can Build REAL TISSUE STRENGTH Again!

3. The lasting way to fight disease, then, is not just to counter-attack each new symptom in its turn . . . but to build such sheer physical strength into each threatened cell of your body that the organism that causes that disease is either destroyed, or rendered harmless, the very instant it enters your body!

4. This is done in two ways: First, to use a medical-diet to drain out the poisons that make your body weak today. And, finally, to use a second, even more powerful medical-diet to pour Super-Nutrients—Nature's own medicines—into every crippled organ of that body . . . not only to force out that specific disease, as fast as humanly possible, but also to leave that organ perhaps even healthier than before it was first attacked!

For example—

See How This NATURAL Method Has Worked— In Thousands Of Case Histories, From Every Walk Of Life, And With Almost Every Ailment You Can Imagine!

"When I came to you I suffered from swelling and tingling of extremities, almost constant hunger, periodic weakness, great sensitivity to glare and loud noise . . . Since becoming your patient I find myself energetic and alert until nearly midnight, awake fully by 7:30 or 8 each morning, in good spirits, not sluggish, and continuing throughout the day glad to be alive, performing challenging tasks!"

"Before I became your patient, I had visited several skin specialists hoping to find help in the removal of what appeared to be growths on my face. Biopsies were taken; result negative. I asked how to get rid of these growths; how to prevent their growing back. I received a shrug of the specialist's shoulder (later, his bill!); he didn't know! Dr. Nittler took one look at the area involved and prescribed (natural) medication for external application which within one week's time cleared up the difficulty. It has not returned."

And Still More Thrilling Results! All Told In The Patient's Own Documented Words!

"However, on Easter Sunday, March 29, 1970, I suffered not only another occlusion, but an acute cardiac arrest. This was preceded by three days of intense weariness, fatigue and restlessness . . . Only extreme good luck made it possible for me to write these words . . . They (his regular physicians) believed open heart surgery to be the only hope for giving me a normal life span . . . It was at this point that I was referred to Dr. Nittler . . . after his initial examination and after reviewing my medical history . . . he started me on his "basic heart program" . . . Within weeks, I noticed great improvement . . . an increased surge of well-being with each passing week. My family doctor continues to monitor my case. He cannot, at this point, rule out the open heart surgery recommended by his peers, but he is honest enough to admit I've shown great improvement. He says my heart is beating more slowly and stronger and that everything sounds good. My laboratory tests are all normal . . . I'm looking forward to returning to work and a normal productive life."

"I've been subject to asthma all my life. It would come with a cold or when I laughed or exercised too hard. The situation became dramatically worse when we moved to Santa Cruz in 1966. For some reason I'd catch a cold every four to six weeks . . . Only when I got it, it would go to my chest, develop into asthma, and I could hardly breathe. I was fed up with being sick and tired all the time . . . So I went through Dr. Nittler's whole program . . . Now (1971) the few colds I catch are very mild. I can't even remember the last time I had asthma with or without a cold!"

"In the latter part of November past, I broke out in an allergic dermatitis—severe hives . . . in addition to the hives, I would get a severe pain in an area above the right kidney . . . It was an acute shattering pain that immobilized me. I was next given cortisone. After 24 hours this would lessen the severity of both hives and pain. As long as I continued with cortisone . . . I was fine, but when I stopped, severe hives and pain recurred. Then back to cortisone for four or five days, followed by hives and pain. I seesawed back and forth in this manner for several weeks . . . A friend of mine gave me Dr. Nittler's phone number and begged me to call him. . . . Then on the tenth day under Dr. Nittler's care, something wonderful (to me, a miracle) happened—I was free of my ailments! A staggering weight had been lifted from both my shoulders and my wife's . . . Now I am in the thirteenth month after the doctor's care, enjoying the best of health and feeling great."

And Literally Thousands Upon Thousands Of Case Histories More! ALL STEMMING FROM NATURAL "SUPER-FOOD" TECHNIQUES LIKE THESE, THAT YOU CAN USE TOMORROW IN YOUR OWN HOME!

Again, to list only a few examples of the specific, step-by-step "Super-Food" Treatments given you in this great book:

Home treatment for constipation that works through your skin, and removes internal poisons, painlessly and automatically, at the same time it restores normal functions.

How to increase the blood flow (and therefore the life-giving oxygen) not only to your heart tissues, but your entire circulatory system. (As just one side-benefit of this new, natural therapy, cold feet simply feel warm and good again!) This process automatically lowers the work load of your heart, and your lungs, and so, as another marvelous side-benefit, almost immediately diminishes the ever-increasing shortness of breath that plagues most people!

How to get rapid relief from gallbladder pain. A treatment that also may enable you to actually, painlessly pass a stone or two (and get rid of them for good). And, at the same time, stimulate the flow of bile from your liver, and begin simultaneously stomach-healing food-therapy.

Why hemorrhoids do not have to be endured any longer! A simple capsule that may yield apparent benefits in a day or two, with restoration of normal function and comfort in a few weeks, just as it has in case after case in Dr. Nittler's own files!

How, if you suffer from an acute illness, you can actually feed your body healing food-ingredients through the skin. That go to work to help you, in seconds!

Liver Detoxification! Follow These Simple Rules, AND PAIN-CAUSING POISONS LITERALLY POUR OUT OF YOUR BODY!

The best and most ancient method of healing wounds. (Animals do this instinctively. But we've forgotten it.)

A do-it-yourself prostate massage that involves only a simple motion with the legs and soles of your feet . . . plus a little-known and delicious food that greatly aids in the normal function of this important gland.

What to do for repeated violent pains in the chest (called Intercostal Neuralgia, and often mistaken for heart trouble or even attack). How to tell the difference at once. And then use a simple natural spray that relieves this torturous pain in minutes, for hours!

The inexpensive food that has fantastic results with cold, and even flu! As Dr. Nittler says: "This remedy alone cures many cases of flu."

Why Dr. Nittler dares to say: "I have known very severe long-standing cases (of Athlete's Foot) respond dramatically after one application"!

And why he also says: "I have seen a deep nasty boil on a cheek drain through the skin in one night with the use of this (natural food product). The infection was on the pad, there was no infection left in the boil and no wound visible."

PLUS: emergency treatments for burns that prevent scarring . . . a simple remedy for poison ivy that works . . . how to melt away warts (and even some brown spots) . . . a non-prescription product (as are all the other remedies given here) that has a wonderful healing effect of the mucous membranes of the intestinal tract . . . home remedies for internal parasites . . . what you must do, at once, for diarrhea . . . how Dr. Nittler treats ulcers . . . how to rebuild weak stomachs, without aggravating them . . . how to break fever in emergencies, especially in children . . . the tested routine to follow for any virus infection . . . strength-foods for every part of the body . . . how your body can build up its own reserve supply of nutrients to fortify its natural resistance in terms of stress or epidemic . . . weight-reducing without tears . . . the most effective treatment ever invented for hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) . . . and much, much more!

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Allan H. Nittler, M.D., received his diploma in medicine almost thirty years ago from the University of Cincinnati . . . has been associated since then with both the United States Army and the San Francisco City and County Hospital. He was one of the first physicians to recognize the need for vitamins in medical therapy and the radical difference in effect between synthetic and organic vitamins in therapeutic dosage. He is a frequent contributor to various magazines and journals, and is recognized today as one of the leaders of the new medical science of preventive nutrition as a major factor against both fatigue and disease.

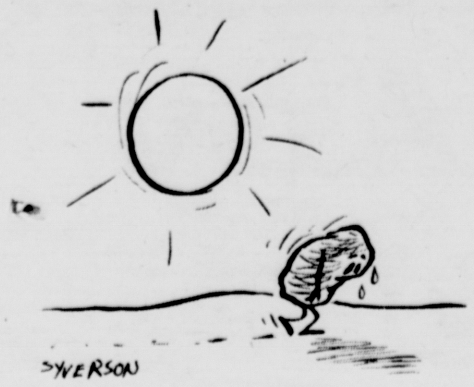
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



CONSIDER THE RAISIN

The raisin, that was once a grape,
Unlined and smooth, with rounded shape,
Is now unlovely, flattened out,
With lines and wrinkles all about.

Of raisins I am fond indeed.
Their food supplies my body's need.
And yet to my close-peering eyes
They look like prunes, of smaller size.

I wonder, could a raisin be,
Though good to taste, so sad to see
Because of envy, forced to pine,
Left out, not winding up as wine?

You know who would have done well with the gas shortage? Columbus. He got 3,000 miles to a galleon.

Recently we spent several days with our son and family. While driving along the highway, we passed a number of signs. One was a picture of a mermaid. Our four-year-old grandson piped up with, "There is a woman in fish pants."

RAMONA VAN ZIJL

Ramona van Zijl of Holland became interested in the Japanese art of self-defense, jujitsu (judo), when she was 13. Now 20 years old, she holds the highest honors a woman can receive in that sport: the Black Belt. And she teaches judo at the College of Further Education in Dusseldorf, West Germany. Most of her pupils are men, and they are quite surprised when they see their instructor. It only takes a few minutes, though, for them to realize that 5-6, 108-pound Ramona is well worth her Black Belt honor. In jujitsu, weight and size are not important, for judo is an art of balance, holds and throws. During her years of training, Ramona has broken her own teeth and bones, and has had numerous dislocations, but she says it was all worth it. "The problem," she adds, "is where do I go from here? I have reached the highest honors for women in jujitsu, and as I am only in my 21st year, I have a whole life ahead of me. . . . I suppose that I will try to become upgraded into the male class, but at present, that looks very unlikely."

"Helen Keller delighted in showing off her garden. . . . Miss Keller, relying entirely on her sense of smell, pointed out the . . . flowers. She spoke in a harsh, guttural voice, which, of course, she could not hear. At first, the animal-like sound of it added to the strangeness one felt about Miss Keller, but soon one became accustomed to her way of speaking. When my [wife] Helen got to know her well, she asked whether she felt the loss of sight was worse than the loss of hearing. 'My dear,' Miss Keller said, 'you can touch a rose. You can smell it. You do not have to see or hear it to know it. But not to hear a fellow human being's voice is the greatest of deprivations.' " From "The Autobiography of Dr. Samuel Rosen," by Samuel Rosen (Alfred A. Knopf, $6.95).

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

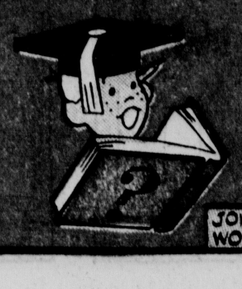
"ARE DOGS COLOR-BLIND?"



YES. SCIENTISTS TELL US THAT ALL DOGS ARE COLOR-BLIND. THAT IS, THEY DON'T SEE COLOR AS WE KNOW IT. WHAT DOGS DO SEE IS BLACK AND WHITE AND MANY DIFFERENT SHADES OF GRAY. CATS, AS WELL AS MOST WILD ANIMALS THAT HUNT AND GRAZE IN THE EVENING WHEN COLORS ARE DIM, SEEM TO HAVE POOR COLOR VISION. BEING ABLE TO SEE COLORS IS NOT IMPORTANT IN THEIR LIVES. PEOPLE CAN BE COLOR-BLIND, TOO! SOME PEOPLE CANNOT DISTINGUISH BETWEEN TWO OR THREE COLORS WHILE OTHERS ONLY SEE DIFFERENT SHADES OF GRAY.

Pointers

DEAR POLLY — A plastic photo block makes a great recipe holder. Recipes are written on squares of paper the size of the block and then slipped in. This is good for the ones most constantly used and more than one short recipe might be placed on one side. — MARY D.

●

DEAR POLLY — I find using squares of paper toweling instead of terry towels for blotting the water out of my hair after washing it. They soak up the water better. This also keeps hair, dye stains off my towels. — RUTH

DEAR POLLY — I cut off the good parts of discarded pajama legs, put hems in both ends (about 1 to 1½ inches) and leave a small opening for inserting small elastic that will fit my upper arm and wrist. Sew elastic ends together. These "sleeves" are kept in the car glove compartment to be available for slipping over my arms when the sun becomes unbearably hot. — MABEL.

DEAR POLLY — When buying new buttons for any garment you're making, always buy at least one and, better still, two extras to be prepared when one is lost or broken in the laundry. This has saved me from having to buy an entire new set many times. — LOIS

DEAR POLLY — Save those plain white cardboards that come with pantyhose and paste colored pictures from magazines, greeting cards and so on on them and then fasten several together to make a scrapbook. Hospitals and day care centers are always happy to get them. — WINONA.

DEAR POLLY—The winter cold and snow are bad for small trees and plants so they often die or are bent over by the weight of the snow. They need protection against the winds, cold and snow so I bend a piece of wire fencing to make a tubelike shape and fill this with leaves, but am careful not to have so many they might crush the plant.— LINDA

DEAR POLLY — Those who have little girls know how expensive it is to buy all the sets of hair ribbons they want to match their different clothes. I sew and always have leftover bias tape. It's just great to use for hair ribbons. Even if you have to buy it, the tape is less expensive than ribbon. — BARBARA

●

DEAR POLLY — Instead of throwing away my old garden soakers I cut them into ¼-inch strips to use for soft, pliable tie-ups that will not cut tender plants. With time and patience one could cut such a soaker into one long strip, roll into a ball for convenience and cut as needed. — MRS. R. P. A.
